Kennedy Blames Nixon, GOP For Cuba 'Disaster'

Declares Policy Failures Allowed Reds To Step In

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy Thursday night blamed Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the Eisenhower administration for policy failures which he said led to establishment of a militant Communist satellite in Cuba.

"It is the party in power which must accept full responsibility for this disaster," the Democratic presidential nominee declared in a speech at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

As for Nixon's role, Kennedy said the Republican White House candidate has admitted that a strong program of U.S. aid for Latin-American development might have produced enough Cuban economic progress to prevent Fidel Castro's takeover.

The vice president was in Cuba five years ago "gaining experience," Kennedy said, adding that his only conclusion expressed at the time was that the Batista dictatorship had impressed him very much.

Mistakes Repeated

"Mr. Nixon could not see than what should have been obvious—and which would have been even more obvious when he made his ill-fated Latin-American trip in 1958—that unless the Cuban people, with our help, made substantial economic progress, trouble was on its way," the Democratic candidate said.

"If this is the kind of experience Mr. Nixon claims entitles him to be president, then I would say that the American people cannot afford many more such experiences."

The senator declared that, "The great tragedy today is that we are repeating many of the same mistakes throughout Latin America.

"The same grievances—the same poverty and discontent and distrust of America which Castro rode to power—are smoldering in almost every Latin nation."

Kennedy, in one of his most slashing attacks on the administration so far, called the Cuban situation "the most glaring failure of American foreign policy today"—"a disaster that threatens the security of the whole Western Hemisphere."

Unusual Campaign Tactic

He devoted his entire speech to Cuba, an unusual campaign move for him. His aides had dropped the word in advance they considered it one of his major efforts to date.

Kennedy said there was a four-fold answer to the question, "How did we permit the Communists to establish this foothold 90 miles away?":

1. "We refused to help Cuba meet its desperate need for economic progress."

2. "We used the influence of our government to advance the interests and increase the profits of the private American companies which dominate the island's economy."

3. The United States gave "stature and support to one of the most bloody and repressive dictatorships in the long history of Latin-American repression"—the Batista regime.

4. "We did nothing to persuade the people of Cuba and Latin America that we wanted to be on the side of freedom."

Hoodlum Tells How Fla. Judge, Wife Murdered

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A Florida hoodlum's description of the murders of Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth and his wife was on tape Thursday and officers reportedly were seeking a white man and a Negro as accomplices in the sensational crime.

The wealthy judge and his wife, Marjorie, vanished from their oceanfront home June 15, 1955, in circumstances indicating they had been kidnaped and slain.

Five baffling years of investigation finally ended when Floyd A. Holzapfel, during a two-day drinking bout in a Melbourne, Fla., motel, blurted the full story to two companions while officers in another room put it on tape.

The ex-convict, 36, allegedly hired to kill Chillingworth, 58, said he and a Negro accomplice went by motorboat to the lonely beach behind the judge's home.

They grabbed the judge when he answered their knock on the door, then took his wife when she came to investigate the scuffle.

"She was an accident," Holzapfel said. "We weren't gonna bother her, but when she saw me we didn't have no choice, so we took her, too."

The couple was taken three or four miles out to sea and both were weighted down with heavy chains.

"I said, 'ladies first' and pushed her in," Holzapfel related. "She went down with a few bubbles.

"Then we shoved the judge in, but he was such a good swimmer that even with the chains he was able to float.

"We tried to run him down with the boat and when we missed him the others wanted to shoot him."

Instead the judge was hit on the head with a hammer and went down.

Plot was piling upon plot in the fast-breaking case. Two men were released under $25,000 bonds after being charged with conspiracy to kill Holzapfel.

One of them, Donald Miles, 31, a Eau Gallie builder, was reported missing after he borrowed his sister's car for an errand Wednesday night and failed to return.

The other alleged conspirator, William A. Peel Jr., former West Palm Beach city judge, was reported at home. Peel was once publicly rebuked by Chillingworth for allegedly working both sides of a divorce case.

Holzapfel, in his recorded story, which he later repudiated, said he was hired by someone who held a grudge against Chilingworth, a stern but highly respected jurist.

U.S. Told Pair Held By Soviets, Took Pictures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Thursday it has been told that two American tourists mysteriously missing in Russia since August are being held for taking photographs near the Soviet border.

Despite repeated inquiries, Soviet officials have been silent on the fate of the men—Harvey C. Bennett, 26, of Bath, Maine, and Mark Kaminsky, of Jefferson Twp., Cass County, Mich., who was to have started teaching at Purdue University this fall.

But the department said another American tourist reported he had seen Kaminsky Aug. 25 at the Soviet border control point in the Intourist travel agency hotel at Uzhgorod on the Czech border. The department said the tourist quoted Kaminsky as saying he "was under detention for having taken a photograph."

The department said a second U.S. tourist reported he had talked with both men at a hotel at Kiev on Aug. 18, or just a week before Kaminsky was said to have been seen at the border.

The last direct word from the two men was a postcard which Mrs. Bennett received from her husband Sept. 6. The card was dated Aug. 19 and was postmarked from Vinnitsa, a Soviet town near the Czech border.

Bennett said in the card that he and Kaminsky had auto trouble but planned to leave Russia in about six days at Chop, a point where the Russian, Hungarian and Czech borders meet.

Chop is 20 miles south of Uzhgorod, where Kaminsky reportedly was seen and said he was under detention.

The State Department twice tried to get information from Russia's Intourist agency. On Sept. 15 Intourist said the men were scheduled to leave Russia at Uzhgorod Aug. 29 but had not passed the check point there and apparently still were in the Soviet Union.

On Sept. 20, Intourist said no further information was available but that the U.S. Embassy would be informed promptly "if any becomes available," according to the State Department.

British Labor Party Changes Basic Aims

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—Britain's Labor party devalued its traditional Socialist dogma Thursday and decided instead to give priority to a "New Deal" welfare program.

Against all the odds, Laborite leader Hugh Gaitskell talked the party's annual conference into taking what amounts to a revolutionary stride to the right. For the first time the party definitely stated that its aims are broader than state ownership of industry—the old cornerstone of Socialist belief.

The 1,261 conference delegates approved a policy statement which now directs the party's heaviest fire at class privilege.

Second Finch, Tregoff Trial Nearing Climax

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A twice-told tale of sex and intrigue, the second Finch-Tregoff murder trial, is nearing its climax amid rising drama.

Final arguments are under way and the jury of 11 women and one man will soon take over the same task on which an earlier jury deadlocked. The jurors must decide:

Whether Dr. R. Bernard Finch shot his estranged wife in the back by accident during a frantic midnight struggle, as he says, or intentionally as the prosecution charges.

Grant B. Cooper, Finch's attorney, pursued his final impassioned plea Thursday in an effort to save the once-prosperous socialite physician from a first-degree murder conviction and possible death penalty.

The crewcut, athletic doctor, 42, and his shapely sweetheart, Carole Tregoff, 23, are charged with murder and conspiracy in the July 18, 1959, slaying of Barbara Jean Finch, 36. She was killed outside the $50,000 Finch home in a country club area of suburban Covina.

As in the first trial, the defendants have told of an illicit love affair which started while Miss Tregoff was still married and working for Finch.

Like the first jury, this jury must decide whether to believe smooth-talking hoodlum John Patrick Cody, self-styled ladies' man, or the defendants.

Cody, a much-arrested barroom brawler, insists Finch and Miss Tregoff hired him to murder the doctor's wife. He said he didn't do it and never intended to. The defendants say they hired Cody to get damaging evidence against Mrs. Finch for a divorce suit—if necessary try to seduce her.

Hearst Papers Endorse Nixon

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hearst newspapers announced Thursday their endorsement of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate for president.

The 12 newspapers, which list themselves as politically independent, endorsed President Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

Cuba Claims Troops Rout Invasion Force

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government claimed Thursday its armed forces are in hot pursuit of 24 survivors of a 27-man invasion force from the United States which landed near the eastern tip of Cuba. U.S. policy directors were blamed for the incursion.

A communique of the Armed Forces Ministry said militiamen intercepted the invaders soon after the landing at Navas Bay, killed their leader and captured two others.

The leader, Armentino Feria, was described as a former captain in the private army of ex-Sen. Rolando Masferrer, a once-powerful figure in the Fulgencio Batista regime who is now a refugee in the United States.

A spokesman for the prime minister's office said Castro, who is in Havana, regards the landing as "of very little importance."

Navas Bay is on the north shore of Oriente Province, the cradle of Castro's revolution, between the mining town of Moa and historic Baracoa, where Diego de Valazquez founded the first white settlement in Cuba in 1511-12.

The communique said the two dozen men—including three Americans—who eluded the militiamen seized 50 Cuban farmers as hostages and hiked to an area in that mountainous region called Nuevo Mundo—New World.

"This group can not escape pursuit of the revolutionary army and rural militiamen," the communique declared.

It reported seizure of a large American flag, a book on U.S. Army regulations and seven American carbines in the opening clash.

Exactly when the landing occurred was not made clear. The communique, which was undated but was handed to Havana newspapers at 2 a.m. Thursday, said it came "at dawn yesterday."

Reports circulated in Santiago, the Oriente Province capital 90 miles southwest of Navas Bay, that the landing was made several days ago and the clash with militiamen developed soon afterward.

Joseph Welch, Lawyer Of Dry Wit Fame, Dies

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Joseph N. Welch, the Boston lawyer whose dry wit and keen legal mind gained him nationwide prominence in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings six years ago, died Thursday. He would have been 70 Oct. 22.

Living in retirement in his secluded Cape Cod home, he was hospitalized early last month for a heart condition. His wife was at his bedside when death came unexpectedly in Cape Cod Hospital.

Until the Army-McCarthy hearings put his face and ever-present bow tie on the nation's TV screens he was little known outside legal circles—but was considered a lawyer's lawyer.

He frequently was called by other law firms and attorneys for consultation.

After he gained fame as counsel for the Army in its wrangle with the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, he was in demand—in the movies and on television.

In 1958 he moved from the courtroom to the movie lot, and portrayed a judge in a film called "Anatomy of a Murder." His acting earned him a nomination for an Academy Award.

Recently he had been the host for a televised mystery series. He also did several "Omnibus" programs, explaining the law and its workings in laymen's terms. In addition, delivered lectures on the United States Constitution.

Sen. Goldwater's Life Threatened By Phone Caller

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A threat was made on the life of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a party official told police Thursday. The senator is due Saturday for a speaking engagement.

Donald L. McLaughlin, chairman of the Santa Barbara County Republican Central Committee, reported to authorities that he received a call from an unidentified man who warned: "Listen and listen very carefully. When Barry Goldwater comes to town he will never leave alive."

Goldwater is scheduled to speak to a GOP rally at San Marcos High School auditorium Saturday. Extra protection was promised by the sheriff's office, FBI and local police.

Nixon Raps His Rival's Record On Medical Care

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Thursday night charged his opponent's record on medical care for the aged has been "up to bat three times, struck out three times."

Nixon emphasized his own voluntary state-operated program for medical care in a speech prepared for delivery at an evening rally in this Great Lakes city.

Earlier, Nixon made a quick dash to Nashville, Tenn., for another try at capturing some of the Southern states. The frequency of Nixon's Southern visits gives some indication of the hopes he and his supporters have for pulling off this trick in what once was the solid Democratic South.

Coming into Nashville there were indeed signs of enthusiasm—newsmen who also came here with Democratic candidate John F. Kennedy said the streets were considerably more crowded for Nixon. At the time of Kennedy's visit, however, there were Democratic complaints that Kennedy's route into the city was not publicized locally and people did not know where to go to see him.

Bringing up civil rights, Nixon repeated his charge that Kennedy ducks talking on this subject in the South. Nixon said he himself talks the same way North, East, South and West.

At Cleveland, Nixon gave this assessment of the medical care performance of Kennedy: "The program he talks of now was rejected earlier this year, 17 to 8, by the committee in the House of Representatives. This committee was controlled, 15 to 10, by his own party. The plan was defeated, 12 to 5, by the Senate committee.

"His plan then was defeated in the Senate, in a struggle in which his party had a 2-to-1 majority, but he couldn't deliver his own votes.

"Up to bat three times, struck out three times—there is his record on his program of medical care."

Red Bloc Bids For African Nations' Vote

U.S. Still Confident Of Barring Action On Peiping Entry

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly plunged Thursday night into a wrangle over the Red China membership issue. The United States, aware it had aroused resentment in the powerful Asian-African bloc, still was confident of barring action.

The Soviet bloc opened the debate with a new attack on the United States keyed to the theme of discrimination against Negroes in the United States, already raised in the assembly by Soviet Premier Khrushchev Saturday.

The Communist bloc was making a determined bid to impress the new African nations whose votes could mean the difference on the China issue. Red-bloc delegates displayed an attitude of triumph over the turn of events at this session. Western delegations were worried by bitterness of Africans and Asians over U.S. maneuvering which defeated a neutralist expression of hope for a U.S.-Soviet summit meeting.

In a new gesture to the African nations, Soviet White Russia's delegate, K. T. Mazurov, accused the United States of "disgraceful" discrimination which he said deprives millions of Negroes of voting rights. This was in reply to the U.S. contention that Red China's suppression of human rights makes the Peiping regime unfit for membership.

Soviet Bloc Walks Out

The members of the Soviet bloc walked out of the assembly when T. F. Tsiang, the Nationalist Chinese delegate, took the rostrum. This is the usual Communist behavior toward the Nationalists.

Tsiang assailed Prime Minister Nehru for urging admission of Communist China in view of Red repression in Tibet.

"India's policy is not really neutralism, it is a policy of appeasement," he declared.

He asserted that Poland is "fighting against the new imperialism of Moscow" but its representatives in the United Nations are not free to speak about it.

But a showdown was postponed when the assembly adjourned until Friday morning, with a continuation of the Red China debate slated for the afternoon.

U. S. spokesmen conceded that the vote might be closer than before. But they said despite Asian and African disappointment, they expected a majority to hold firm behind the American stand that Red China does not meet the requirements to apply for membership.

U. S. Acts To Repair Damage

The United States moved to repair the damage done in the struggle over the neutralist resolution and was emphasizing to U. N. delegations the reasons behind President Eisenhower's opposition to their proposal.

The United States, the Americans were telling delegates, abides faithfully by U. N. directives and the Communists do not. President Eisenhower, having said he would not meet with Soviet Premier Khrushchev until certain preconditions were met, therefore was opposed to a resolution expressing hope that he would do so.

The United States would have accepted gladly a resolution which had expressed hope for new East-West negotiations without specifically naming the President and the Soviet premier. However, since the neutralists had insisted on naming the two leaders, the Americans are telling U.N. representatives, the United States had no choice but to maneuver actively against the resolution.

While the Americans expressed advance confidence on the China issue, U.S. spokesmen pointed out that each year it is becoming more difficult. One of these years, backers of the U.S. stand said, the United States likely will find it no longer can muster sufficient votes on the China question.

Kennedy-Nixon Slugging Match Seen In Second Round Of TV Debate Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—If their tactics of the past week are any indication, the rival Democratic and Republican presidential candidates will peel off the kid gloves and slug in Friday night's second round of their nationally televised debate.

But Democrat John F. Kennedy and Republican Richard M. Nixon will have to seek their openings from questions thrown at them by a panel of newsmen. Unlike their first confrontation Sept. 26, there will be no formal statements.

The questions will cover both foreign and domestic issues. Under an agreement by both sides, 2½ minutes will be allowed for a direct reply to a question and 1½ minutes for rebuttal comment.

The hour-long debate will begin at 7:30 p. m. EDT and will be carried by the three TV networks and four major radio nets.

NBC, which is in charge of arrangements for this second round, has planned a special set designed, it said, to impart a greater feeling of warmth to the background. Some critics complained the first debate, from a studio in Chicago, was held in too bleak a setting.

The set was built in New York and shipped here. It has a large circular background about 20 feet high made of grass cloth, with tones of brown and a bit of green.

An NBC spokesman said at a press preview there will be no flags, bunting or other materials, but the new setting should add a look of warmth.

The two candidates will sit in brown chairs. Each will be behind a kind of desk. From the viewer's standpoint, Kennedy will be on the left and Nixon on the right, as in the first debate.

The candidates will step to 42-inch high lecterns, also covered by grass cloth, to answer questions. In the Chicago debate they were seated on open chairs and talked from open lecterns.

Edward A. Rogers, TV adviser to Nixon, said it is expected the same type of lighting will be used on the vice presidnt as was used in the Chicago debate, but that a final decision will be up to Nixon. In Chicago, two floor lights shone on Nixon's face.

Rogers also said that Stan Lawrence, a New York makeup man used previously by Nixon at various times, will use makeup to hide the vice president's beard.

In the wake of the first meeting, many viewers said Nixon appeared wan and tired. Republican National Headquarters said this was because of the lighting and make-up.

Ike Fails To Change Sukarno's Mind

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Thursday failed to shake Indonesian President Sukarno's belief that an Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit meeting would help ease cold war tensions.

Sukarno, a leader of the United Nations neutralist bloc, said after a 35-minute White House meeting with the President that Eisenhower explained why he did not want to meet with the Soviet Premier at this time.

South African Republic To Be Proclaimed In '61

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South Africa has voted to become a republic with a president instead of the British monarch as chief of state.

The republic will be proclaimed next year to replace the Union of South Africa, a setup that came in 1910 in the peaceful aftermath of the Boer War to reunite the four provinces and Britain. A previous Republic of South Africa, recognized by the British in 1853, had dissolved in long conflicts.

The decision in Wednesday's referendum—to return to the republic and end the constitutional monarchy relationship of mutual sovereignty—may cost South Africa its membership in the British Commonwealth, with all its trade advantages.

Members opposed to South Africa's white supremacy policy may blackball South Africa when it seeks admission as a republic to the British community.

Bearing out predictions of an electronic brain, votes favoring the republic Thursday night rose to more than half the 1,800,748 total registration in South Africa.

The South African Press Association said final figures from all 156 voting districts gave the republic a majority of 73,980. It gave this breakdown: for the Republic 849,958, against 775,978.

In the main, the referendum was a battle between the Afrikaans-speaking South Africans of mainly Dutch descent who favor a republic and English-speaking South Africans who want to retain the constitutional monarchy. The big majority in South Africa—the 10 million Negroes and those of mixed bloood—were not allowed to vote.

Md. Legislative Group Ups Aid Plan

BALTIMORE (AP)—Money experts on the Legislative Council reportedly have boosted their plan for State aid to local governments by about $1 million.

The group, the influential Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters, recently approved a State aid program totaling $7.2 million more than the current setup.

Reliable sources said Thursday the recommended program now has been increased to about $8.1 million with most of the increase going to the big suburban counties.

The upward revision was considered by many as a victory for Del. Blair Lee, D-Montgomery, lone holdout on the committee when the lesser program was approved.

The committee is meeting regularly and has not yet put its report in final form.

The recommended program reportedly will include an increase of about $3.3 million to be distributed within the State's school equalization plan and another $3.2 million to be added to the incentive school construction fund. Another $1.5 million would be added to welfare aid.

Representatives of the Maryland State Teachers Association immediately branded the committee recommendations on educational aid as "totally inadequate." The group is seeking a $13 million teacher pay raise program.

Lodge Owner Sent To Jail On Gaming Charge

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP) — Frank C. Russell, prominent Eastern Shore businessman, was sentenced Thursday to 30 days in the Kent County Jail after pleading guilty to keeping a gaming room.

Russell, a former Cleveland glass manufacturer, is owner and manager of the Oak Lodge and Marina near here.

Russell pleaded guilty in Kent County Circuit Court to 14 counts charging him with operating gambling devices at the Great Oak Lodge. Judge J. Thomas Keating sentenced the defendant, about 55, and gave him until Sunday to make personal arrangements for serving the term.

Russell and an Oak Lodge bartender, William C. O'Donnell, were arrested Sept. 6 after a raid on the lodge. Sheriff Bartus O. Vickers said he and his deputies seized 11 slot machines and two gaming tables. Eight or nine customers in the room were not charged.

O'Donnell pleaded guilty with Russell and received a 30-day suspended sentence.

State's Atty. Philip J .Skipp said Russell was convicted in September 1959 on a charge of possessing four slot machines and was fined $1,000.

Annapolis Girl, Man Killed In Car Crash

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Two Annapolis residents were killed instantly Thursday when their small foreign car collided nearly head-on with another auto two miles west of here.

The victims were identified as Geraldine Elizabeth Armiger, 19, and Royston Zurmehl Medford, 36. State Police said it took 20 to 30 minutes to remove their bodies from the demolished car.

The driver of the other car was identified as Mrs. Lila Amelia Trimper, 46, daughter-in-law of Daniel Trimper, former mayor of Ocean City. She was admitted to Easton Memorial Hospital in serious condition.

State Police said the accident apparently occurred as Mrs. Trimper, driving south on U.S. 50, passed a Greyhound bus.

Police said Mrs. Trimper's car skidded toward the right shoulder of the road as it pulled back into the southbound lane, then went into a reverse skid, crossed into the northbound lane and slammed into the oncoming foreign car.

More than 500 public health workers from Maryland, adjoining states and the District of Columbia are expected to attend.

N. Y. Police Block Firemen Pickets

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of 200 angry firemen, picketing for improved job benefits, suddenly broke ranks Thursday and tried to storm City Hall.

Police managed to block them before they reached the building. Later, pleading union officials got them back to the picket line.

The wild demonstration was the second of the day by the off-duty firemen who are picketing in City Hall Park.

Earlier, they broke out of the picket line and surged across the street when two of their members were removed from the line by an acting deputy fire chief.

The fire official said they were violating fire department regulations by picketing in uniform.

The pickets ran after the fire chief shouting, "Let them go. Let them go," but police dispersed them.

UMW Defends Its Investments

CINCINNATI (AP)—The United Mine Workers Union Thursday defended its more than $70 million investment in coal producing concerns and other blue chip securities as profitable to miners and the nation at large.

UMW secretary-treasurer John Owens gave delegates at the union's 43rd convention a rough sketch of the UMW's rich portfolio of stocks and loans to power companies, railroads, shipping lines and banks. Total union assets were reported at over $100 million.

Owens asked for a vote of confidence in the UMW's financial policies, guided by 80 - year - old president emeritus John L. Lewis. Delegates shorted their approval.

The financial report, the most detailed public accounting in the union's history even if it left many questions still unanswered, was aimed at court litigation filed recently in Knoxville, Tenn., federal court. It charges the UMW with conspiring with big coal companies to put little coal producers out of business in violation of anti-trust laws.

Khrush Slows Pace But Meets With Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev, obviously weary from his one-man propaganda offensive, slowed his pace Thursday but managed to meet for one hour with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Kremlin leader, however, canceled his scheduled visits to two diplomatic receptions Thursday night and, for the first time, stayed away from the United Nation General Assembly.

His main attention was focused on a dinner with Prime Minister Nehru of India, at the latter's Carlyle Hotel headquarters.

Khrushchev also had a farewell meeting with Indonesian President Sukarno, a few hours before the latter's scheduled departure for Rome.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, paid a teatime call on Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the president the Russians have lauded as a true friend.

Afterward, Khrushchev strode silently to his limousine. Mrs. Roosevelt, who was hostess to Khrushchev last year at Hyde Park, also declined comment.

Meanwhile, Western diplomats picked up reports that the Soviet leader might end his New York stay about the middle of next week. They reported signs that the Communist Czechoslovakian and Romanian delegations were planning to leave about then.

As Sukarno prepared to leave the country, Nigerian Prime Minister Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa was arriving at Idlewild Airport to take part in the admission of Nigeria into the United Nations Friday. He was a luncheon guest of Lord Home, British foreign secretary.

State Education Leaders Review School Problems

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Some of the oldest problems and one of the newest techniques in education came under review of Maryland Association of Boards of Education Thursday.

The continuing problems were placed before the three-day meeting by Dr. Vernon E. Anderson, dean of the School of Education at the University of Maryland.

In an address, Anderson discussed whether schools should maintain curricula designed to serve all the pupils or an advanced few; whether activities should be limited to strictly intellectual pursuits or also include social life, and whether high school programs should be standard or made adaptable to individual needs of pupils.

He also probed the place of school boards—and whether they should plan for immediate needs or look to long-range goals, and whether programs should be left in the hands of professionals or directed by professional educators working with laymen.

Dr. William M. Brish, superintendent of Washington County schools, covered a new educational field in a later talk to the 100 educators on hand for the meeting.

His topic was educational television, covering success the Hagerstown schools have had since closed circuit TV was installed in classrooms here.

Friday morning the conference delegates—including school board members from throughout the state, county superintendents and representations from the State Department of Education — will visit the Hagerstown school system's television center, and watch the classroom TV in operation.

Expressways Will Be Green On Road Map

BALTIMORE (AP) — Expressways will appear on the official 1961 Maryland road map in green lines. County roads will be shown in gray.

The State Roads Commission disclosed the color plans in approving a $28,200 contract for printing the maps for next year.

Red and black lines will be used as before to designate primary roads.

About 300,000 copies of the 1961 map will be printed. The contract was awarded to A. Hoen & Co. of Baltimore.

Truck Taking 40-Foot Tree To Baltimore

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A 40-foot Richmond cedar tree, whose roots alone weigh 14 tons, is on its way to decorate the lawn of a Baltimore hospital.

The tree, for 25 years a part of the stock of a Richmond nursery, will be planted on the lawn of the new St. Agnes Catholic Hospital on U.S. 1 south of Baltimore.

The tractor-trailer and tree stretch out for 66 feet.

Nursery owner Fred L. Williams Jr. said the tree sold for four-to-five thousand dollars.

D.C. Police Chief Heads Association

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Association of Chiefs of Police closed its 67th annual conference Thursday after electing Chief Robert V. Murray of the Washington Metropolitan Police Department as president for the coming year.

Murray succeeds Superintendent Charles W. Woodson Jr. of the Virginia State Police as head of the organization.

The conference named as its first vice president Chief Frank A. Sweeney of Jenkintown, Pa.

The real name of French novelist and dramatist George Sand was Lucile Aurore Dupin.

Baltimore Co. Zoning Official Ousted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Wilsie H. Adams, Baltimore County zoning commissioner, was ousted from his job Thursday by County Executive Christian H. Kahl for "lack of discretion and . . . questionable propriety" in connection with his official duties.

Adams recently was involved in a conflict-of-interest hearing in connection with money received in land transactions.

He told the hearing last week that he received three checks totaling $20,000 from Food Fair Stores, Inc., and two property owners involved in a land deal with the supermarket chain. He denied the payments had anything to do with zoning matters.

Adams said the money was paid for help in negotiating a lease at the Arbutus Shopping Plaza and for inspecting other possible store sites outside Baltimore County.

Adams said he received permission to do the work from Michael J. Birmingham, then head of the Baltimore County board of Commissioners.

Kahl said he acted after he and William E. Fornoff, county administrative officer, had reviewed testimony taken at the hearing.

Adams said he was "shocked" by the action because he thought he had been "completely vindicated" by the public hearing.

Adams added he felt his dismissal was "actually aimed at satisfying supposed public clamor" and was "wholly unwarranted and grossly unfair."

Living Costs Rise

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Chile's cost of living has risen more than six per cent this year, government figures showed.

The rise in September was lower than that in August, an indication the government's new anti-inflation measures are taking hold.

SALISBURY (AP) — The murder trial of Walter W. Silva, 39, accused of strangling his 23-year-old wife, Kathryn Joyce, has been scheduled at Cambridge Nov. 14. Mrs. Silva was killed last Feb. 14 in a motel at Salisbury.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Four-year-old Kirk Mondshour, apparently jumping from roof to roof with two companions, failed to complete a leap and fell three stories to a sidewalk Wednesday. An awning broke his fall. He was taken to Franklin Square Hospital suffering a possible skull fracture.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Annette Webster Beane, 48, died in Union Memorial Hospital early Thursday, apparently of injuries suffered in a fall down her basement steps in her suburban home.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission will decide Oct. 20 on a proposal to amend its regulations and permit the auction sale of surplus public land. The auctions would be scheduled if surplus areas were not disposed of first through offers to other governmental units and then through public bids at assessed values, now the only procedures used.

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A simulated atomic blast is scheduled here Saturday as two Army reserve units from Washington stage exercises. Some 400 troops of the 316th Special Forces Detachment and the 317th Infantry Regiment will participate in the drills, which include an air drop of men and supplies and a night combat maneuver.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Miss Patricia Ann Conner, a student at Towson State Teachers College, has been named Maryland Queen of Flowers by the Allied Florists Association. She will be crowned at a flower festival here Oct. 29 at the conclusion of National Flower Week.

Pardon For Convicted Robber Considered

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Department of Parole and Correction has been asked to determine whether a pardon should be issued for Horace Spriggs, serving a nine-year prison sentence for robbery.

The possibility of a pardon was put to the department by Gov. Tawes, who could free Spriggs from the sentence. Spriggs, 33-year-old father of two, has served three years.

The reason for the study is a new conviction in the case — handed down Wednesday against Charles H. Byrd, who signed a confession admitting the $280 street robbery of John T. Ford at Baltimore in 1957.

Byrd now is serving an 18-month sentence in the House of Correction on a burglary charge. Byrd implicated in his statement another man whom he identified as his accomplice in the robbery and cleared Spriggs.

Hopkins Expenses Rise, Deficit Falls

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johns Hopkins Hospital reported Thursday its operating expenses amounted to nearly $14 million during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

The hospital said it was the 27th consecutive year its operating costs had increased. Its annual treasurer's report showed, however, a decline in annual operating deficit to $1,456,000.

The deficit was $158,000 less than that recorded in the previous fiscal year. The hospital attributed the increase in operating income largely to higher State support for the care of needy patients.

Under a new formula effective since Jan. 1, the State pays 80 per cent of the costs for such patient care. In the past, the hospital paid more than half the cost.

Kremlin Reportedly Plans Red Summit Rally Next Month

LONDON (UPI) — The Kremlin was reported Wednesday to have invited Communist party leaders from 20 nations throughout the world to meet in Moscow next month to discuss the ideological conflict between Russia and Red China.

Plans for the Red summit rally were reported by Communist sources here. The invitations are said to have gone to China, all the Iron Curtain countries, the chief European Communist parties including the French and Italian, and the parties of various Asian nations.

The ostensible reason given for Communist gathering was November celebration of the anniversary of the Soviet revolution.

The sources conceded, however, that the actual purpose of the conference is to debate the controversy between Moscow and Peiping over what line the Communists should follow in dealing with the West.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has been advocating a policy line of peaceful coexistence as against China's tough line of resorting to war with the west if necessary.

Preliminary information is that most of the invited party leaders have accepted or are preparing to accept the Soviet invitation.

But there is no firm indication as yet whether China will be represented and, if so, by whom.

The Moscow rally, which sources said is scheduled for the first week in November, will have before it a report from a high-level commission set up by the Communist nations recently to examine the Sino-Soviet controversy.

The commission, which is to make recommendations for a possible settlement or an open ideological break, is understood to be at work now. Some of its top members are reported traveling within the Red camp to learn the attitudes of the various parties toward the Moscow and Peiping ideologies.

According to reliable reports, one of the commission's foremost members is Russia's Mikhail Suslov, the Kremlin' top theoretician a former Stalinist who has moved toward the Khrushchev line.

Wall Street Views

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Wall Street analyst Wednesday drew a parallel between the current stock market and a military campaign.

"A military leader", said Alan C. Poole of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., "when uncertain of the enemy's position and activities will hold a large portion of his troops in reserve."

Poole recommended the same cautious attitude toward the market:

"The investor will be well advised in maintaining large purchasing power reserves in the form of cash and fixed income securities.

"Easier money may still be used to combat falling stock prices and a further recession in business. This would cause higher bond prices."

The recent downward draft has not dampened the enthusiasm of the Bache & Co. market letter writer. He said:

"We can only repeat our statement of recent days that, no matter what course the Dow-Jones industrial average takes in the immediate future, all of our technical indicators tell us that the market as a whole is still in a highly oversold condition."

Also not discouraged is E. George Schaefer, author of "The Dow Theory Trader".

"With each passing day", Schaefer said, "the technical position of this market becomes stronger and more bullish for a rise that may well be steeper and swifter than the 1958-59 rise.

"Regardless of who wins the election in November, I believe that the primary bull trend under the Dow theory will rule and a much higher market will come by late 1960 and early 1961."

Valley Road Appoints Committees

Achievement Day was discussed at the meeting of the Valley Road Homemakers Club, held Wednesday at Central YMCA. Mrs. Elizabeth Nave presided and reminded members the county meeting would be held in the form of a luncheon-meeting with a speaker, November 1, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church hall. She urged all to attend. Mrs. G. Frank Malin asked for a record of books read during the year. Mrs. Orien Wilson took note of clothing made during the year. The homemaker year ends October 31.

The meeting opened with the group singing the hymn, "Abide With Me." Mrs. Wilbert E. Brinkman gave its history. Mrs. Irene MacDonald read the collect and roll call was answered with each naming her favorite piece of furniture.

A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. George Kraft, Mrs. Frank Tole and Mrs. MacDonald; and an auditing committee, of Mrs. Ella Bortz, Mrs. John S. Cook and Mrs. Brinkman, were named.

Mrs. Cook, international relations chairman, talked of the history, aims and accomplishments of the United Nations and illustrated it with slides.

Snow Ball To Be Jan. 21; Auxiliary Selects Projects

A talk by John A. Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, and discussion of plans for the coming year and new projects featured the annual fall luncheon of the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Wednesday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. William H. Ryan, president of the auxiliary, presided and introduced the speaker. In his talk Mr. Moberly paid tribute to the work which has been done by the group and said that in his opinion an important facet of an auxiliary is that it understands existing conditions and services of the hospital and is in a position to discuss them intelligently in public. He also said he thought members would be interested in an explanation of the workings of the Blue Cross insurance in view of the wide publicity recently given its request for an increase in rates. Mr. Moberly reminded his listeners that Blue Cross contracts to pay the hospital its charges for the services rendered a patient, while the so-called commercial insurances contract to cover only a certain flat amount. Therefore, he said, Blue Cross rates must go up as hospital charges increase, whereas such pressures are not so heavy on the commercial insurance companies. He said hospital charges had risen sharply since World War II because of the high cost of living and the necessity of competing with industry for adequate and well-trained personnel. Mr. Moberly said the hospital business is the fifth largest in the United States, and that it cost over $2,000,000 to operate Memorial Hospital last year. He said the hospital has a staff of 400 full-time employes, with very little personnel turnover, and will continue to try to give the patients the finest service possible.

At the business meeting following the talk Mrs. Ryan announced that a new volunteer group had been formed. This group, the pediatrics sewing group, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John O. Durst, will meet on Mondays, starting October 10, at the hospital, from 10 until 2 o'clock. Any interested members are to contact Mrs. Durst.

Announcements were made that Mrs. Charles Herath, reception desk chairman, would welcome volunteers for work on weekdays and that Mrs. George Newman, pediatrics story hour chairman, would hold a meeting for prospective workers at her home October 13 at 1:30. Mrs. John Moberly, ways and means chairman, announced that the Snow Ball would be held on January 21, 1961 at the Cumberland Country Club, with music by the Richard Lewis Band.

The members were advised that the entire pediatrics department of the hospital was redecorated this summer by the auxiliary at a cost of $1,242.12. This work was under the direction of Mrs. Richard Trevaskis and Mrs. Milton Beneman, and was paid for by money raised at the Snow Ball. The auxiliary also has agreed to assist to the extent possible with some renovating on the obstetrics floor of the hospital, and to replace some furniture in the nurses' home.

Mrs. Gladys Brooks, supervisor of nurses, thanked the members for their interest in maintaining an attractive home for the student nurses, and announced that there are 107 nurses in the hospital school of nursing. She praised the Future Nurses' Clubs which are being organized in high schools throughout the country, one of which was recently started at Allegany High School. Mrs. Ryan announced that the nominating committee for the election in the spring is composed of Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin and Mrs. W. Royce Hodges. She also thanked the hospitality committee of Mrs. Merrill Barnes, Mrs. William Cooley, Mrs. Marvin Kaplon and Miss Madolin Norris for arranging the luncheon.

Aims Accepted

The Women's Missionary Society "Aims for Advancement" were adopted at the meeting of the executive board of the WMS of Grace Baptist Church, at the church. Announcement was made of the work day, October 27 at 10 a. m., and a meeting of all auxiliaries, October 13 at 1:30.

Concluding the meeting a surprise birthday luncheon was held in honor of Mrs. James Kirkpatrick, president.

Mrs. Hand M. Shank, 110 Park Street, is attending the funeral of her brother in Connellsville, Pa.

East Side Appoints Committees

East Side Homemakers Club planned its Christmas party and named two committees at the meeting conducted by Mrs. Clarence Stewart Tuesday evening in the Melvin Methodist Church social room. The party is to be held at Nave's dining room in conjunction with the December meeting, at which time officers will be installed.

Mrs. Stanley Leasure, Mrs. Herman Curry and Mrs. Roy Hinkle were appointed to select a vice president and secretary for the coming year. Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Stanley Morris were named to the auditing committee.

The collect was read by the group. Mrs. Thomas Buser read the history of the hymn, "Abide with Me," and accompanied the group singing. Answering roll call with favorite pieces of furniture, they included "mother's rocking chair," beds "to rest," stoves, by those who "like to cook," and TV headed the list. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Buser and Mrs. Dan Klavuhn, who also spoke on master mixes and distributed recipes. Mrs. Earl Smith gave the sunshine report. Pennies for friendship were collected. It was announced that seven took the course in molding plastic flowers, given by Mrs. Klavuhn at the home of Mrs. Willmettie Haller, Goethe Street. The meeting closed with singing "Home on the Range."

A cake walk was won by Mrs. Nettie Dicken. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stanley Morris and Mrs. Stanley Leasure. The next meeting will be November 1 at the church. Three guests attended. Other members present were Mrs. Debra Burkett, Mrs. Joseph Goodyear, Mrs. Hinkle, Mrs. Haller, Mrs. Klavuhn, Mrs. Lawrence Miller and Mrs. Ella Simons.

THE PURSUIT OF EXCELLENCE

BY GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

How dedication to people's needs resulted in America's Most Trouble-Free Car

Many voices today urge that Americans set their sights on higher plateaus of excellence in all fields. In a recent article in Life magazine, John W. Gardner, president of Carnegie Corporation of New York, said:

"How does one contribute to the greatness and strength of a free society? That is a question to which there are many true answers. One answer is—pursue excellence.

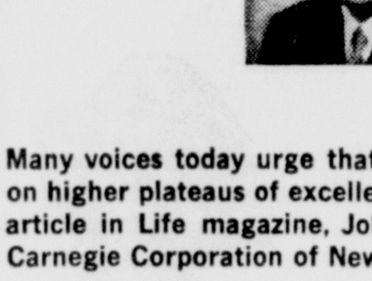
"At the simplest level, the pursuit of excellence means an increased concern for competence on the part of the individual.

"But excellence implies more than competence. It implies a striving for the highest standards in every phase of life. We need individual excellence in all its forms, in every kind of...industry —in short, universally."

In our company, striving for basic product excellence has resulted in the Rambler and its trouble-free superiority, a revolutionary force in today's car business.

Competitors hustled to reshape their product planning and to reorganize their efforts. In contrast, our technicians could pursue their tasks carefully and unhurriedly; their pioneering work on compact cars was long behind them.

Our solid and rattle-free car with Single-Unit aircraft type construction had been pioneered 21 years ago. Other manufacturers are now following our lead in part.



Deep-Dip rustproofing

Freeing Ramblers from rust by dipping the entire car body into a rustproofing bath was another by-product of American Motors' pursuit of excellence.

Rambler's gasoline mileage records, year after year, represent still another area of achievement.

Eleven Years of Rambler Experience Behind '61 Line

Our newest line of Rambler cars has been designed, engineered and manufactured by men and women who take great pride in workmanship and whose motto is "Build every Rambler as though you were going to own it yourself." Our 1961 models have reached a new industry level of basic balanced excellence.

What can this mean to you?

It means that the strongest safeguards in auto history are set up for your benefit. A year ago Rambler dealers were informed we would extend our warranty coverage against product defects for 12,000 miles of operation, or 12 months, whichever comes first. Today, we are formally extending to all new car buyers this warranty protection to cover total replacement cost, including parts and labor, on all 1961 Rambler models and to original owners of all 1960 Ramblers still under this warranty period.

Our assurances don't stop there. We now guarantee that the new Ceramic-Armored mufflers and tailpipes on 1961 Ramblers will last as long as the original purchaser owns his Rambler.

New Ceiling Reduces Road Noises

Another 1961 Rambler advance is a new cushioned acoustical ceiling of molded fiber glass on Rambler Classic and Ambassador models that reduces road noises by 30%.

In the Rambler Classic Six Custom model, you'll find America's first die-cast aluminum engine block, a quality engine capable of improved performance and economy.

Those are just a few current examples of American Motors' advances. The most basic is the type of car itself. The compact car, pioneered by Rambler, is today's outstanding motor car value.

Just what is a true "compact" car? Loosely applied, the term has been used to describe a car providing better-than-average gasoline economy, or a particular size of vehicle, or a car in the new lower price range. The compact car concept is broader than these things.

Values Found in True Compact Cars

Balanced proportions of passenger and utility space, riding comfort, handling ease and maneuverability, performance, economy, durability, dependability, attractiveness and safety have been and will be the elements of value most desired over the years by car buyers.

Today the best balance of these elements is achieved in cars ranging from 170 to 200 inches in length. Below 170 inches, interiors are skimpy. Above 200 inches, economy, zestful performance and handling ease are sacrificed.

In Rambler's compact cars you enjoy a balanced combination of values most sought in a passenger car. Today's Rambler is the end product of our pursuit of excellence.

Widest Choice of Compact Cars

At least 3 out of 4 motorists would be better off with one of the basic types of compact cars. Rambler, alone,

New cushioned acoustical ceiling offers all three basic types. Let me describe them, briefly:

1961 Rambler American—Lowest priced U. S. car, built with Single Unit construction, room for six average adults. Holds nation's top economy run records. New contemporary styling that does not require annual change, plus engineering simplicity, assure that depreciation costs will be held to a minimum. Offers more value than any compact car on the market today.

1961 Rambler Classic, 6 or V-8—All-purpose compact with the best balance of room, performance and economy. Custom 6 model equipped with die-cast aluminum engine block, an industry first. Styling continuity cuts depreciation cost and appearance obsolescence. Has substantial price and utility advantages over "low-priced" standard-sized cars and new luxury compacts.

1961 Ambassador V-8 by Rambler—The compact car that offers top performance and luxury features of most expensive cars, yet avoids ostentation, high depreciation, high operating costs, and gives owners advantages not found in larger, bulkier and less manageable cars. Equipped with either 250 or 270 H.P. engine. Will save medium- and high-priced car buyers hundreds and even thousands of dollars.

Your Rambler dealer is conducting his 1961 previews now. Why not visit him today?

In our pursuit of excellence we pledge you:

To change the design of our automobiles only when change represents genuine improvement, never to change for the sake of mere change . . . To continue the search for new ways to offer greater usefulness to the user . . . To balance compact design with interior room and convenience . . . To avoid fads and extreme, impractical styling . . . To strive constantly to understand America's changing motoring needs and build cars to meet them . . . To dedicate ourselves to the pursuit of basic excellence . . . This is American Motors' pledge to all America...

This is Rambler

Cowboy Depicted On Wyoming License Plate Practically Grew Up On Horse

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI)—Stub Farlow was probably one of the most famous cowboys in the world although most people outside of Wyoming have never heard his name.

Practically everyone has seen his picture though. Stub—bronc buster, rodeo rider, law officer, friend of governors and leading citizen of Fremont County, Wyoming, is the cowboy depicted on the Wyoming license plate.

Since 1936, when the Wyoming plate first carried the famous design of the cowboy on the bucking horses, nearly two million plates have been stamped out.

The cowboy also has been used in other ways to designate the state until the silhouetted rider, forelock blowing in the wind, hat triumphantly aloft over a sunfishing bronc, has become synonymous with Wyoming.

The late Lester Hunt, former Wyoming governor and senator, who got the idea for the cowboy on the license plate, called Stub "the most typical cowboy I ever knew."

Grandson of a full-blooded Sioux son of an adventurous cowhand who pioneered in Fremont County, Stub was a symbol of the old Wyoming of wide open spaces and high spirits.

He was born at Lander Feb. 2, 1886, and practically grew up on a horse.

At 15 he started riding in rodeos and during one six-season stretch, he used to say, "never got bucked off."

Stub's maternal grandfather was a Frenchman named Jules Lamoreaux who went west over the Overland Trail by ox team to Nebraska, where he married a Sioux Indian girl named Woman Dress, a sister of Chief Gall, war chief of the Custer massacre.

Stub's grandparents pioneered in Fort Laramie, Wyo., in 1865, then migrated to South Pass, Wyo., at one point averting an Indian attack because his Sioux mother jumped out of the covered wagon and waved an Indian blanket at a party of marauding Sioux.

His father was born in Iowa, ran away from home and headed west when he was 16. He became a rancher in Fremont County and in later life was a state representative.

Stub was riding a bronc named Deadman when the picture was taken which later became Wyoming's famous cowboy symbol.

Hunt, secretary of state at the time, had an artist make a design from the photograph. He had the original drawing hanging opposite his desk in the Capitol when he was secretary of state and governor.

Wyoming stamps more than 100,000 license plates a year, and Stub on his bucking horse has gone everywhere in the United States and probably most places in the world where there are roads.

Stub died at 67, on July 24, 1953, while serving as Fremont County undersheriff, but he had already gained immortality.

DAG Nations To Harmonize Aid Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight Western nations and Japan agreed with the United States Wednesday night that greater co-ordination is needed in aiding developed areas.

Delegates of the ten capital exporting countries which make up the recently established Development Assistance Group (DAG) decided to harmonize their assistance projects and make them more effective.

A communique issued here after the closing session of their three-day meeting said special emphasis was placed on the type of aid given to help underdeveloped nations plan their development. This aid is known as technical "pre-investment" aid.

Officials who attended the meeting said that delegates also stressed the need to eliminate overlapping, waste and maladministration of aid.

The meeting was presided over by T. Graydon Upton, assistant secretary of the treasury. Members of the group are Belgium, Britain, Canada, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Japan, Portugal, West Germany and the United States.

TOURIST TOWER—A new observation tower for visitors nears completion in this air view of the American section of Niagara Falls. The jagged edge of the escarpment between the tower and the falls is where Prospect Point, famed as a tourist attraction for more than a century, collapsed in a rockfall in 1954. Science AT Work

By The Associated Press

A Saturn-like ring around the earth, sensing mechanisms of animals, and a sea-going tank figure this week in the thinking of scientists:

Climate-Changing Ring

Some Soviet scientists think it might be possible to warm up the climate of the Northern Hemisphere by putting an artificial ring of finely-divided potassium dust around the earth.

Rockets could shoot the stuff aloft, forming a Saturn-like ring about 60 miles wide at heights of 700 to 6,000 miles above the planet. The idea is such a ring would reflect back to the hemisphere much of the solar energy now dissipated in space after initially reaching the earth.

Rattlesnake Tip

Air Force biologists are exploring possibilities of getting aid from such varied creatures as the rattlesnake and lobster in developing improved methods of guiding and detecting missiles.

Scientists long have seen chances of duplicating the sensing methods of bats, moths, porpoises and whales in various kinds of electronic devices, Brig. Gen. B. G. Holzman writes in Science.

Research is also being pushed on such less well-known animal powers as: the exquisite sensitivity of the rattlesnake to tiny changes in temperature, the ability of certain fish to respond to almost infinitesimal changes of electricity, the beautifully designed mechanism of the lobster for maintaining equilibrium, and the ability of houseflies to use their back pair of wings as a vibrating gyroscope for balanced flight.

Informative Teeth

The teeth of seals apparently develop bands something like the rings of a tree, British scientists report. Counting the bands can tell the seal's age. The bands perhaps originate from periods of semistarvation when the seals are moulting each year.

Underwater Robot

Navy oceanographers plan soon to use an unmanned device called RUM, meaning remote underwater manipulator, to explore the ocean floor at depths of nearly four miles.

Remotely controlled, equipped with TV, the device consists essentially of a war tank that can crawl along the ocean floor at three miles an hour. It sports an electromechanical arm which can pick up samples. Scientists on shore will control its movements through a five-mile-long, silver-plated electrical cable.

Neanderthal Bones Found In Iraqi Cave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Neanderthal skeletons 45,000 to 60,000 years old have been found in a northern Iraqi cave by Columbia University anthropologists, the National Science Foundation announced Wednesday.

The group was led by Dr. Ralph Solecki, who in the same cave in 1957 discovered three other Neanderthal skeletons.

The foundation said the party also uncovered a burial place containing 26 skeletons, estimated to have been left there about 10,500 years ago.

Dr. Rose Solecki discovered about 2½ miles from the cave what may be one of the first dated discoveries of change from cave life to village life. This was found under five feet of earth in explorations dating back to 1957.

She said the caves apparently were occupied during cold winter months and the village during summer months starting between 10,000 and 11,000 years ago.

Safety pins, in a crude form, go back to prehistoric times. The ancient Romans used them for centuries before the Christian era.

CONFEREES—President Eisenhower and President Sukarno of Indonesia flashed these simultaneous grins yesterday at the White House. Sukarno, one of the five neutralist leaders at the United Nations urging a meeting between Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, went to Washington for a conference. Eisenhower did not get a chance to talk to the Indonesian leader in New York. Sukarno said he still sticks to the idea of an Ike-Khrushchev meeting. (AP Photofax)

Baltimore Youth, 19, Convicted Of Murder

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 19-year-old Baltimore Negro was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday in the fatal shooting of another teen-ager.

The defendant, Charles D. White, faces either death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment under the verdict. Sentence was deferred pending a new trial review.

Pollution Unit Hears Talk By Anton E. Sparr

Anton E. Sparr, this city, superintendent of the waste treatment plant operated at Westernport by the Upper Potomac River Commission, spoke yesterday before the 33rd annual meeting of the Water Pollution Control Federation in Philadelphia.

With the growth of national awareness of the need for water pollution control, Sparr's commentary was an important forward step in the operators' forum of the convention. His subject was "Flow Meters, Gas, Liquid and Air."

In Sparr's talk he dwelt on flow meters used in the sewage treatment plants. The meters reviewed and discussed by him included those used for measuring digester gases, raw and treated liquid wastes, sludges and air.

"Today," he said, "increasing use is made of the Parshall flume, one of yesterday's contributions, along with such newer developments as the shunt flow gas meter, flow tubes, venturi nozzles, and magnetic flow meters."

Sparr's presentation was supplemented from the floor with other experiences in the use of the meters, as well as questions and recommendations from those present for his talk.

A graduate of Cooper Union with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering in 1931, Sparr also holds a bachelor of chemical engineering degree from New York University, 1939, as well as a M. C. E. in sanitary engineering from New York University which he earned in 1942. He has been with his present assignment since January of this year. He resides at 720 Hill Top Drive.

Professionally Sparr is a member of the Maryland-Delaware Water and Sewage Association, a member association of the Water Pollution Control Federation. He is also a member of the American Academy of Sanitary Engineers, and the American Public Works Assn. He is a life member of Tau Beta Pi.

The Water Pollution Control Federation, with 9,000 members in the United States, Canada, and other countries, highlights 33 years of progress in water pollution control at this meeting. Over 1,500 experts have met to see, hear, and discuss the latest and most advanced developments in wastewater equipment, research, and methods. Extensive exhibits have been set up in Convention Hall by over 55 manufacturers to display equipment and supplies and methods.

Kennedy said that the housing situation is one of the greatest challenges facing the nation in the next decade. The conference will help dramatize the issue and assist Kennedy in learning of local problems as well as planning action on the subject.

Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania will serve as honorary chairman. Mayor Richard C. Lee of New Haven, Conn., is conference chairman, and Mayors Richard J. Daley of Chicago, Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphai, and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, vice-chairman.

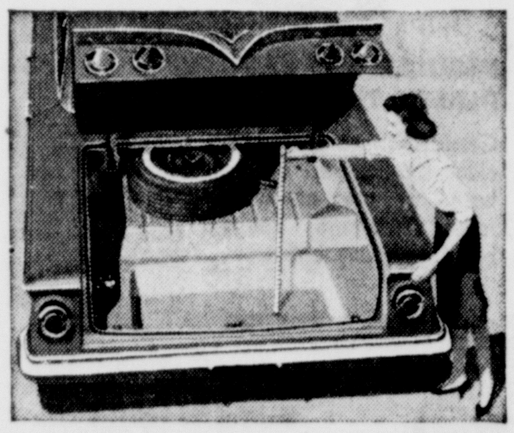
HERE! THE GREATEST SIXTY-ONEDERFUL CHEVROLET

Here's the car that reads you loud and clear—the new-size, you-size '61 Chevrolet. We started out by trimming the outside size a bit (to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and maneuvering) but inside we left you a full measure of Chevy comfort. Door openings are as much as 6 inches wider to give feet, knees and elbows the undisputed right of way. And the new easy-chair seats are as much as 14% higher—just right for seeing, just right for sitting.

Once you've settled inside you'll have high and wide praises for Chevrolet's spacious new dimensions (in the Sport Coupes, for example, head room has been upped as much as 2 inches, and there's more leg room, too—front and rear). Chevy's new trunk is something else that will please you hugely—what with its deep-well shape and bumper-level loading it holds things you've never been able to get in a trunk before.

Yet, generously endowed as this car is with spaciousness and clean-etched elegance, it holds steadfastly to all the thrifty, dependable virtues Chevrolet buyers have come to take for granted. Your dealer's the man to see for all the details that make this sensationally sensible '61 Chevy a new measure of your money's worth.



There's never been a trunk like it before! The floor's recessed more than half a foot and the loading height is as much as 10½ inches lower.

Three Persons Injured In Car Wrecks In Area

Two separate one-car accidents in Grant County, W. Va., Wednesday hospitalized three persons and badly damaged both vehicles.

West Virginia State Trooper John J. Leeson, who investigated both mishaps, said the first occurred about 5:45 p. m. and resulted in the hospitalization of Frank Porter, 74, and Hattie Porter, 68, husband and wife, of Lehmansville, W. Va.

The second mishap took place, Trooper Leeson said, about 10 p. m. Hospitalized was the driver of the car, Mrs. Mary E. Mozer, 40, Bryans Road, Md. Her husband, Darcey E. Mozer, 41, was shaken up but not admitted to the hospital.

State Police said the first accident happened at Arthur, W. Va., near Petersburg, on secondary W. Va. Route 5. Porter was driving the vehicle with his wife a passenger. Trooper Leeson reported that Porter told him that he "blanked out at the wheel" on a straight stretch of road.

The vehicle went over a bank and came to rest against a tree. Mrs. Porter sustained a broken wrist, a deep laceration on her right arm and possible internal injuries, police said. Porter suffered a cut over his right eye and bruises about the body.

The couple was taken to Grant County Memorial Hospital where attaches reported Porter in "satisfactory" condition and Mrs. Porter as "fair."

In the accident Wednesday night, Mrs. Mozer was operating her automobile about four miles east of Mt. Storm through dense fog when she lost control of the car and turned it over three times on a one-way bridge, it was reported.

State Police stated visibility was very poor because of atmospheric conditions and this was the probable cause of the accident.

Mrs. Mozer, suffering from head, leg and possible internal injuries, and lacerations about the body, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a Minnich Funeral Home ambulance, dispatched from Oakland.

Louis Baker, chairman of the board of director's health and physical education committee, said Harding will be in charge of developing the physical program for boys from ten to 18 years of age.

He will also have full supervision of all Y locker room facilities and will be on the membership committee. He started on his new position yesterday.

Supports Rebels

TOKYO, (UPI) — Communist China Thursday pledged strong support for the Algerian Moslem rebels and urged the rebel government in exile to establish a diplomatic mission in Peiping soon.

The New China news agency broadcast a communique signed by rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Peiping. The communique made no mention of economic or military aid to the rebels, although Peiping had been expected to offer it.

Study Strike End

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) —The Chilean government Thursday studied the possibility of ordering the 6,500 striking copper-workers at the Anaconda mine back to work because of the importance of its 25,000 tons of copper each month in the Chilean economy.

The workers at the company's Chuquicamata mine want a 32 per cent wage increase. The company has offered 25 per cent.

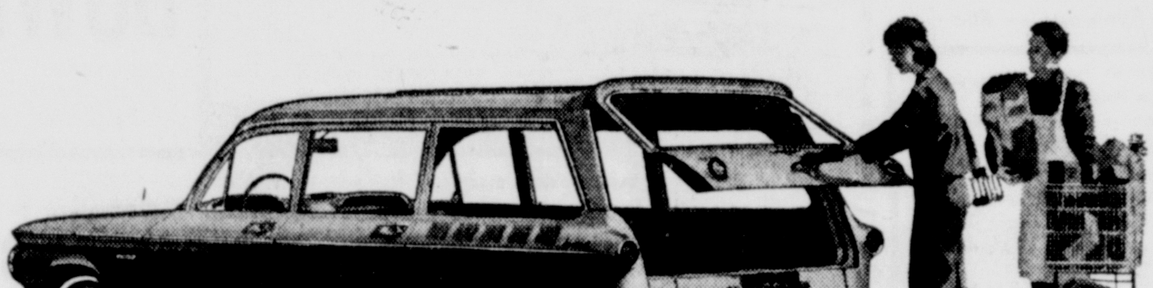
NEW '61 CHEVY CORVAIR

More space... more spunk and wagons, too!



The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKEWOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON.

CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE. Like all coupes and sedans it has a longer range fuel tank.

CORVAIR 700 4-DOOR SEDAN. Provisions for heating ducts are built right into its Body by Fisher.

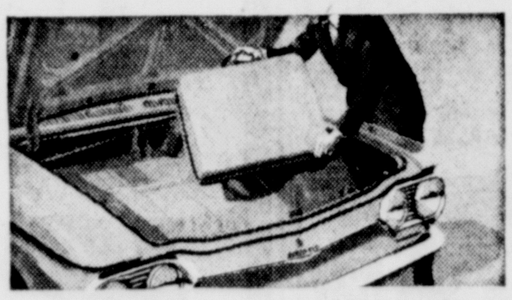
Now in production—the GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON with up to twice as much room for people and things as ordinary wagons (shown with optional-at-extra-cost third seat in position).

Here's the new Chevy Corvair for '61 with a complete line of complete thrift cars.

To start with, every Corvair has a budget-pleasing price tag. And Corvair goes on from there to save you even more. With extra miles per gallon . . . quicker-than-ever cold-start warmup so you start saving sooner . . . a new extra-cost optional heater that warms everybody evenly. Riding along with this extra economy: more room inside for you, more room up front for your luggage (sedans and coupes have nearly 12% more usable trunk space).

And our new wagons? You'll love them—think they're the greatest thing for families since houses. The Lakewood Station Wagon does a man-sized job with cargo, up to 68 cubic feet of it. The Greenbrier Sports Wagon you're going to have to see—it gives you up to 175.5 cubic feet of space for you and your things. Compare that with any other U.S. wagon going!

Corvair's whole thrifty lineup gets its pep from a spunkier 145-cu.-in. air-cooled rear engine. Same rear-engine traction, same smooth 4-wheel independent-suspension ride. See the polished and refined 1961 Corvair first chance you get at your Chevrolet dealer's.



Spare tire is in the rear in coupes and sedans—leaving more luggage space up front.

Even middle-seat passengers sit pretty, thanks to Corvair's practically flat floor.

See the new Chevrolet cars, Chevy Corvairs and the new Corvette at your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There is a trip to Tunis November 15 for that talented actor, Donald O'Conner. I have just heard from busy man, Joe Levine, that he has signed Donald to play the role of Aladdin in "The Wonders of Aladdin."

Joe tells me Rosanna Podesta is set as Donald's leading lady, with Henry Levin as director.

Wouldn't you know Joe would come up with something extra special? He says: "We are now searching for ten of the most beautiful girls in the world to play the handimaidens of Scheherazade".

Well, all I can say to Joe, he's mightly lucky to get Donald, who, in my book, is one of the great talents in show business, and who gives nothing but good performances.

For entirely different reasons, two ladies should be interested that Jason Robards Jr. may be coming to Hollywood for the role of the husband opposite Lana Turner in "By Love Possessed."

The interested femmes are Lauren Bacall, who should be saddened that Jason will be in Hollywood, 3000 miles away from her in New York. The other is Mrs. Robards, currently making a divorce settlement with her Broadway actor husband after dropping Lauren's name from her suit. I'm told she is now convinced that "Betty" didn't date Robards until their marriage went on the rocks.

Although Jason's stage play "Toys In the Attic" is a hit, he's been hankering for a movie.

On the heels of the outstanding reception she received for her Italian picture "Kapo" at the Venice film festival (wasn't in competition, unfortunately, so no prizes were won), Susan Strasberg heads for London to co-star in "Taste Of Fear" for Columbia.

Susan is very pleased about the romantic thriller as it will team her with England's new swoonbait idol, young Ronald Lewis who has the British teenagers reaching for their smelling salts. In fact, the whole venture is sort of a youth project. Seth Holt, for several years an assistant and protege of director David Lean, will do the directing.

Joan Collins, who was at the "Spartacus" preview with her fiance, Warren Beatty, told me that her sister, Jackie Collins marries Wallace Austin December 15 and she plans to go to London for the wedding. Now that she and young Beatty have their house, they plan to be married the first of the year to give her a chance to go to her sister's wedding.

So persistent were rumors out of Europe that Princess Grace was staging a long distance campaign in favor of Senator John Kennedy for president, that an official communique has been released from the palace at Monaco.

It goes along the lines that as the wife of a reigning head of state the American born princess would not think of expressing a preference for either candidate running for the highest office of her native country. "Of course, the princess still retains her right to vote by absentee ballot — which she will exercise."

Research Center

GRANVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. announced Thursday the completion of its multi-million dollar technical research center here. Harold Boeschenstein, president, said the center "demonstrates our confidence in the expanding future of the American economy and the unlimited growth potential for Owens-Corning Fiberglas."

Gets Jet Contracts

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — McDonnell Aircraft Corp. has been awarded $134,655,236 in government contracts for additional production of Phantom II supersonic jet fighters for the Navy, Quail missiles for the Air Force, and spare parts for its F-101 Voodoo Air Force interceptor. The major portion is for Phantom II fighters and pushes McDonnell's backlog to well over $400 million.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is my son's moth-in-law. She phones me almost every day to register a complaint against my son.

The petty things she picks on make me tired. For example, this morning she said, "Denny didn't water the plants and they are drying out something terrible." Then she added, "And he failed to leave the trash can out last night, too."

I feel like telling her to mind her own business and to stop calling me about such nonsense, but I'm afraid she'll take it out on my son in some way.

The truth is, his wife is so lazy she expects him to do every little thing for her. Do you think I ought to continue to listen to her gripes and say nothing? I've tolerated her for two years and I'm fed up.—FAINTHEARTED

DEAR FAINT: I see no reason for you to be a human receptacle for whatever this foolish woman wants to pitch your way.

The next time she calls to bug you say, "Look — when you call to tell me my son forgot to water the plants or neglected to leave the trash cans out, hy heart just aches for that sweet, wonderful daughter of yours. It depresses me that she didn't marry a man who was worthy of her. Please do me a favor and don't give me any more sad reports."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl 17 who used to go steady with a fellow who lives about 45 miles from here.

In March he quit me for no good reason and I cried myself to sleep for weeks. I wrote him every day for three weeks trying to find out where I had failed him. He didn't answer a single letter.

Two months ago he went into the army. He wrote to me last week saying when a guy is in the service he has lots of time to think things over. He says he's still in love with me and wants me to be his date at his brother's wedding which will be in November.

I don't want to start up with him again because of the way he treated me. Also, we were getting too intimate and I think we broke up just in time. But I DO want to go to the wedding because I love his family. Please advise me.—MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: This guy sounds like bad news. A fellow who would break up with a girl "for no reason" and ignore 21 letters has proven he can hand out pretty shabby treatment.

Attend the wedding if you are invited by the bride, but NOT with the former boy friend.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm not a model housekeeper — so what? Some women kill themselves keeping their homes hospital-clean. I find housework boring and I prefer to spend my spare time reading or watching an educational TV show in the afternoon.

My next-door neighbor is one of those crazy-clean nuts who falls in bed at night exhausted because she must have everything just so. She made a remark to a mutual friend that my house was such a mess she didn't see how my husband could stand it.

I read recently that spotless housekeepers are neurotic. Is this true?—NO NUT

DEAR NO NUT: Don't be so defensive. A chip on the shoulder usually indicates wood — high up.

Extremes in all things are bad. If I had my choice of nut however, I'd take the overly clean kind.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stainped, self-addressed envelope.

Certain players appear always to manifest certain characteristics at the card table and a shrewd opponent can frequently capitalize on the knowledge of these habits. West in today's hand succeeded in a highly unorthodox play, made because of his knowledge of South's habits, one of which was never to finesse for the queen when holding nine trumps.

After North's overcall, South, despite the misfit, was unwilling to play the hand for less than game. He, therefore made a jump shift to three hearts. When North supported hearts, there was nothing to be gained by showing the clubs since a slam was not in contemplation.

West cashed the first two diamond tricks and realized that he would eventually make his king of clubs. Since there was no chance for a spade trick, he recognized that the only hope to defeat the contract was to score with the queen of trumps. South's jump shift in hearts made it a moral certainty that he held at least a five card suit and that with nine trumps, even if he held the jack, he would not finesse. If, however, East happened to hold the jack of hearts, a false picture might be painted for the eyes of the declarer. West led the deuce of hearts, East followed with the jack and South won with the king. It seemed highly improbable that West would have led from the queen and one, so declarer entered dummy with a spade and led the eight of hearts thru for the finesse.

When West won the trick, the jig was up since there was no way to avoid the loss of a club trick. Had declarer been left to his own resources, he would have had no choice but to lead the two top trumps.

Mayor Keech Out Of Town

Mayor J. Edwin Keech left yesterday for Washington, D. C., to attend several personal business meetings and will return here tomorrow.

The Mayor expressed his regret at not being here today for the visit of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic vice presidential nominee, and said the meeting had been arranged some time before it was known that Johnson would come here.

Keech has designated Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming to represent him at the Democratic rally at noon today in City Hall Plaza.

Street Department workmen have started erecting the speaker's stand at the City Hall Plaza-Frederick Street-Liberty Street intersection. Lines are being installed in City Hall and outside for loudspeaker systems.

It was reported yesterday that at least three offices on the rotunda floor of City Hall would be turned over to the Johnson party which is expected to number about 40.

Lawyers Face Trial

PARIS (UPI) — Four Paris lawyers who have specialized in defending Algerian Moslem rebels faced trial Thursday on charges of "attacking state security."

Jacques Verges, Abdessamad Benabdallah, Mourad Oussedik, and Michelle Beavuillard were arrested Wednesday on the basis of a document found in a recent police raid.

Wedding Postponed

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., and Swedish actress May Britt said Wednesday they're postponing their wedding. Reason: legal complications from her previous marriage.

It had been set for Oct. 16. They reset it for Nov. 13.

A brief statement didn't elaborate on the legal reasons.

Two boys, one 12 and the other 15, receved hearings in Juvenile Court yesterday in connection with the theft of a station wagon here September 25.

One was paroled in the custody of a relative and the other was committed to the Maryland Training School.

The boys were arrested Wednesday by Capt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas J. See in connection with the theft of the vehicle, which they wrecked on Henderson Avenue.

Capt. Van said the boys got out of bed, picked up the vehicle on State Street and drove to Corriganville. While returning here, they hit a parked vehicle, causing combined damages of about $300 to the vehicles.

Church Plans New Parsonage

Cresaptown Methodist Church has been issued a permit to construct a parsonage at a cost of about $17,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday issued the permit to the church, which plans to build the parsonage on a lot on Bell Street off Brant Road in Cresaptown.

The parsonage, which will be constructed of brick, will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a basement. It will measure 36 by 58 feet.

Also issued a permit yesterday was Harley A. Chaney, of 1070 Braddock Road, who plans to build a 30-by-64-foot stone and frame dwelling at a cost of about $15,000.

The home will have a concrete block foundation, asphalt shingle roof and a basement.

W.Va. Begins Medicare Work

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—They wasted no time Thursday getting under way a newly-enacted medical care program for elderly West Virginians who are hard put to make ends meet.

State Public Assistance Director Thomas Egbert notified county DPA offices to begin immediately accepting applications for benefits under the program.

Egbert explained that this was in line with a directive of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood to start the program moving without delay.

Egbert said applications would be taken even before full details of eligibility requirements were established.

This also is being done before the program is officially part of state law. Underwood probably will not affix his signature until Monday to two bills setting up the six-month $5.06 million program running through March.

The bills, one making technical changes in laws governing the DPA and one appropriating some $1.38 million of anticipated state surplus funds for the program, were passed Wednesday by a special legislative session.

Basically, to be eligible for the medical benefits, a person must be 65 or older and have annual income of not more than $1,500.

Two Men Hurt In Auto Crash

Two men were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday morning after being injured in a one-car crash on U.S. Route 220 near the Pennsylvania state line.

Admitted to the hospital for X-rays and observation were James Diem, 23, Baltimore, and Edward Dentz, 26, of Towson.

The accident occurred about 1:30 a.m. as the two men were traveling toward Cumberland on the Bedford Road. The vehicle struck several guard rails, ran into a ditch and then overturned.

Trooper Charles T. Snow of the State Police investigated the accident.

Land Week Observed

This fall meeting of the commission is the state's chief observance of Maryland Land Week, which is a time when all citizens of the state have an opportunity to reflect upon the importance of soil, water, wildlife, woodlands and recreational resources in everyday life. This was called to the attention of the delegates yesterday morning by Wilson B. Heaps of Harford County, chairman of the Maryland Land Week Committee.

The two-day meeting will end this morning. This is the first in Frederick since 1951.

Attending from Allegany County are District Forester R. Thomas Thayer Jr., A. Trago Brust Jr., public relations manager of the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company; Julian G. Patrick of Westernport, former chairman of the commission's industrial committee, and Owen E. Hitchens, a member of the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Gov. Proclaims 'Autumn Glory' Time Oct. 8-22

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has proclaimed the period Oct. 8-22 as "Autumn Glory Time."

In a proclamation issued Thursday, the governor invited the citizens of Maryland "to visit Western Maryland, and particularly Garrett County, to enjoy the magnificent scenic beauty of these mountains."

Tawes described Western Maryland as "a sightseer's paradise" and said it "heralds the arrival of fall with breathtaking beauty." He especially mentionec Deep Creek Lake as one of the real scenic spots.

About 800 people are already signed on to take the annual Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's "Autumn Glory Excursion" from Baltimore to Oakland this weekend. B & O officials say several hundred more had to be turned away. (Story on page 13)

Motel and inn proprietors in the Deep Creek Lake area report complete sellouts for the weekend.

Open Under New Management?

One of the most effective propaganda efforts engaged in by the Western powers in recent years is being waged in West Berlin and consists of publication in free Berlin's press of the past records of many of the puppet leaders in Communist East Germany. An organization known as the Investigation Committee of Free Jurists in West Berlin has been publishing the biographies of leading East German officials.

To date, the committee has published documented evidence—including the serial numbers of Nazi Party registrations, photostats of questionnaires and re-enlistment records of the SS which prove 220 members of the present Communist hierarchy were ranking members of the Hitler command. From the press aide to East German President Otto Grotewohl to leaders of the legislative and judicial halls of East Germany, the roster of Communist ex-Nazis covers all branches of the puppet government.

Two members of Grotewohl's cabinet have been exposed as important Nazi functionaries, as have supreme court justices, 20 leading generals of the East German youth movement, editors and writers of the controlled press, the city officials of Leipzig and East Berlin.

Frequent embarrassments have been given the Grotewohl administration by the free press revelations. It is obvious that the East German dictatorship harbors many more ex-Nazis than does the government of West German Chancellor Adenauer. And those few who are contributing to the build-up of free Germany have repented their former contributions to tyranny by their conduct in the growth of a free society.

The more than 200 who have risen to the top in the Communist dictatorship in East Germany have changed nothing but their allegiance. East Germany is the same horror state of human terror, political captivation and human enslavement it was under the Nazis. Nothing has changed—not even the administrators of dictatorship.

'I'm Only Hanging Him Until November 8'

Lyndon Johnson Heals Democratic Wounds With Homey Speeches

By Drew Pearson

NEWARK, N. J. — Politicians' memories are shorter than diplomats'. While the diplomats of east and west were digging deeper into international acrimony at the United Nations, two politicians who helped stop Lyndon Johnson's drive for President at the Democratic convention in Los Angeles were seated on the platform cheering Johnson's race for Vice President.

They were grizzled John Kenny, who can turn the Democratic vote in Hudson County off or on with a twist of the wrist; and Dennis Carey, who does the same thing in Essex County. At Los Angeles they were dead against Lyndon Johnson; all for Jack Kennedy; and so much so that they gave their own Democratic governor, Bob Meyner, an ultimatum that if he held out against Kennedy they would embarrass him publicly by throwing him overboard as favorite son.

But in Newark, Kenny and Carey sat with Johnson, the man they helped stop, together with Governor Meyner, whom they threatened to embarrass, at a luncheon given by industrial diamond magnate Charley Engelhard, a delegate who had supported Johnson.

"You remind me of the old Confederate in Texas before the Civil War, who bragged that the South could beat the North with broomsticks," Johnson told his one-time opponents.

"After the war when we came dragging home, our horses gone, our spirits down, they asked this old fellow about his prediction. 'I never said a righter word', he replied, 'except that they wouldn't fight us with broomsticks'.

"That was the trouble with you fellows," Johnson addressed Kenny and Carey." "You wouldn't fight with broomsticks."

L. B. J.'s Honey Campaign

At Los Angeles, some politicos predicted that the Democratic ticket was top-heavy, that the Johnson tail would be wagging the Kennedy dog. So I went over to northern New Jersey to see how a senator from anti-labor, anti-civil rights Texas was doing in pro-labor, pro-civil rights north.

Johnson is campaigning the same way Harry Truman did when he ran for Vice President with the glamorous Franklin D. Roosevelt—playing second fiddle. In fact he told his Democratic luncheon that he'd gone out to get Truman's advice on how to run for Vice President.

"I'd already had some experience running for President," he added, looking again at Kenny and Carey. "Truman told me: 'If people can hear and see the candidates discuss the issues, there'll be no doubt about the outcome'

"So I've been traveling, trying to carry out his advice. There was a Texas boy down at Lackland Field bragging to a New Jersey boy about what a big state Texas is. 'Why', he said, 'you can get on a train and ride all day and all night and you'll still be in Texas'.

"'Yes', said the New Jersey boy, 'we've got some mighty slow trains in New Jersey, too'.

"It's a long way from Austin to Boston," the Senator continued, and then proceeded to tell about the great reception he had received when he campaigned recently in Irish Catholic Boston.

Vanishing Bigotry

"My great-great-grandfather was a Baptist preacher who was born in North Carolina, wandered down into Texas where he became editor of the Baptist Standard and the preacher to Sam Houston. On my office wall is a letter he wrote to Sam Houston promising to pay $300 he'd borrowed from him. We Democrats are always hard up. But what pleased me was that the grandson of a Confederate soldier could be welcomed as I was in Boston. It shows we've got away from the prejudices of the 1860s.

"Then, when Jack Kennedy went down to Houston, a crowd of 175,000 turned out for him. The grandson of an Irish immigrant was welcomed by the biggest crowd in the history of Texas. So maybe we're getting away from the bigotry of Al Smith's day."

Johnson told how a little girl came out to see Kennedy at his plane in Fort Worth, the daughter of Lieut. Wilford Willey who had volunteered to go on a dangerous air mission with Capt. Joe Kennedy, the elder Kennedy brother who was killed in the war.

"Nobody asked either of them what church they belonged to when they volunteered for that mission," said the Senator.

Though Johnson campaigns with a homey touch, he can and does take off the gloves. He accuses Nixon of "working both sides of the street," of "having considerable experience in calling bad shots," and points out that Nixon tore up the convictions of a lifetime when he and Rockefeller rewrote the Republican platform in the Waldorf Tower.

"What would happen if Khrushchev got Nixon locked up in a kitchen for a day?" asks Johnson.

Johnson is at his best in talking about the divided responsibility of government. He talks with authority and inside knowledge of his attempts as Senate leader to cooperate with the Eisenhower administration.

"I've done my best to make divided government work," he says—and some of his friends think he will tell you that at one time he "liked Ike" too much.

"I shudder to think what would happen to this country if the Democrats had acted toward Eisenhower as the Republicans did toward Roosevelt and Truman."

Kennedy Campaign Enters Buoyant Phase

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE WITH KENNEDY

In the Kennedy campaign safari, the buoyancy, the optimism, the sense of being on a rising curve, are now so strong that they are all but tangible.

Maybe Sen. Kennedy and his people are deluding themselves. Maybe the Senator will fall flat on his face in the next television debate, although he looks as sure-footed as a chamois. But the atmosphere of a campaign entourage is always a meaningful fact. (Who can forget the significantly dank confusion around Adlai Stevenson in 1956?) So this new Kennedy atmosphere is at least worth recording.

This phase dates from before the first television debate—it began with Kennedy's triumphant reception in Cleveland, just before he went to Chicago. But the aftermath of the debate has increased the buoyancy, and it has also increased the warmth of the candidate's welcome by the crowds who turn out for him.

The crowds themselves have something to do with the buoyancy. One does not want to exaggerate. A lot of people in these Kennedy crowds would turn out for any Democrat. More would turn out for any passing show. Yet you cannot doubt, all the same, that Kennedy has somehow captured the imaginations of enormous numbers of the American people.

The "jumpers," as the reporters on the safari call the young girls who leap up and down in groups at Kennedy's approach are an odd phenomenon in themselves. More remarkable still are the "touchers," the very considerable numbers of people, grown-up, hard-working people, who long to touch the candidate, as though he were imbued with some sort of valuable, transferable personal magic or private electricity.

One outwardly serious, sensible-looking old lady was even heard shrieking to a friend, "I can't get near enough. I'll touch you and you touch him for me"—as though a current would thus flow from Kennedy through her friend to herself.

Some kind of current does seem to flow, some sort of exchange does seem to take place between Kennedy and the tens of thousands who daily come to see and hear him. The effect is most astonishing in one of the big amphitheaters like the one in Hibbing, Minnesota, where Kennedy had an audience of 12,000 in a town of 16,000.

The great cavernous space is filled, filled to the rafters, with people. The crowd is not ornamented, so to say, with banners, streamers, and the like, for the Democrats are short of cash and have no dollars to spend for trimmings. The space, the crowd, the inevitable bands, the empty platform—that is all there is to it.

The lesser politicians file in first. There is an opening speech or two—sometimes a more skillful speech than the main speech yet to come. Then through a side door, with aides flanking him to hold off the "touchers" who surge forward, Kennedy quietly enters. The instantaneous result is a thunder of cheers and you find yourself wondering what there is in this tall youthful-looking man with the shock of hair and the half-embarrassed smile to make him a master of men.

What follows is more curious still. Voice training has cured Kennedy of his former habit of speaking in a sustained unvarying shout. The new lower-pitched, more variable Kennedy voice is not agreeable anymore than the sound of bagpipes is agreeable, but like bagpipes, it can stir the blood. Standing rigidly erect, rarely smiling, even more rarely gesturing, with deadly seriousness, with little change of rhythm, with no pauses to invite applause, Kennedy speaks in this near, still harsh, but somehow stirring voice.

The speech is suited to the occasion and the audience. The construction is often disjointed. There are repetitions and sometimes there are blunders of phrasing. But the language is elevated, even literary, for this man is something of an artist with words, who has evolved a speaking style as personal as Adlai Stevenson's, and vastly more masculine.

The themes, by now, are all familiar. The promise of more generous welfare measures, the emphasis on the need for growth at home, the stern insistence on the need for greater power abroad — these notes that Kennedy strikes are standardized by now. Underlying the publicized themes, however, there are other things that have received less attention. There is an intense sense of this particular moment in history. There is a somber estimate of history's possible movement. And there is a desperate urgency about the measures to assure a decent future.

says, and there is no doubt he says, and there is no dubot he means it. The very fact that he means it combines with his visible, almost overly-visible, confidence in his own power to find a safe way through. It is this combination that moves the crowds, and makes the old women want to touch him.

It is a curious way to run for the Presidency and it may well not be a successful way. But it is interesting to watch.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Cyrus Eaton's Lunch

Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland speculator who is often called a capitalist, gave a luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore in New York on September 26. Eaton conducts his own private diplomacy in utter disregard of the requirements of his country. I have the list of those whom Eaton invited, although I do not know whether all those invited attended. As it is, in the circumstances, libelous to say that an American attended such a luncheon if he did not, setting him down as having a treacherous and disrespectful heart if not mind, I must refrain from publishing the list until I can check whether those asked, accepted.

Thirty-four Russians were invited in addition to Khrushchev. The list of Americans asked does not contain too many distinguished names, although two or three persons force one to raise an eyebrow. It will be difficult to check the more obscure persons. My list shows that in addition to the Russians, Cyrus Eaton invited 163 persons.

He delivered an address. The report states that as he spoke, he improvised and added to the address. Copies of the address were given to those who attended. He opened on this note:

"I should hope that this luncheon would not only lead to strengthened friendships, but also serve as a forum for discussion of ways and means to increase business between the Soviet Union and North America, and to secure cooperation to the mutual advantage of all three nations in the markets of the world."

He then hoped to take Khrushchev to the Hall of Fame of which he, Eaton, is an Elector, and then he would like the Russian to attend one game of the World Series. He then turned to economics and said:

". . . I, as a capitalist, believe there is abundant room for both of our systems, and others, to flourish side by side on the same planet."

Having said that, he buttered up Soviet Russia in this manner:

"We of the West have not failed to note superb Soviet accomplishments in other than economic areas. For some years, I have had the privilege of knowing many of your scientists, whose eminence is evidenced in numerous ways, but particularly by your brilliant advances in space ballistics.

"I have seen your great schools, colleges and libraries, which testify to the soundness of your educational methods. Most recently there has been the admirable performance of your athletes at the Olympic Games in Rome."

Cyrus Eaton then discussed disarmament. He does not propose inspection and control. Regarding disarmament, Eaton said:

"Since lofty ethical considerations and terrifying prospects of destruction have failed to move mankind, I suggest that we now earnestly put forward the unquestioned economic advantages to both our countries of terminating the arms race. We can discuss these matters with complete frankness, because I am sure you know the facts. The world is now spending more than $100 billion a year on armaments. Close to half of this amount, I must add regretfully, is being spent by my country and, to my even greater regret, some well-meaning men in the United States are actually urging an increase of 20% in annual American outlays for armaments.

"What dividends can the arms race yield but death and destruction? Conversely, think of the untold benefits to all mankind of the equivalent in trade and commerce of the $100 billion now being wasted each year on armaments."

Thereupon Cyrus Eaton told Nikita Khrushchev:

"Then there is the present weakness of the American dollar, which, for instance, is currently worth only 97 per cent of the Canadian dollar. Our American gold holdings have fallen below $19 billion dollars for the first time in 20 years. Inflation and taxes, mounting as they inevitably must with increasing armament expenditures, impose a heavy burden on Americans in all walks of life.

"I am concerned not merely with the soundness and the integrity of the American dollar, but particularly with its popularity at home and abroad. I want to see American bankers loaning money in every possible part of the world, and I want to see American investors risking their cash around the globe, wherever the capitalistic system is welcome. This obviously requires that we Americans make friends, and avoid inspiring envy and resentment."

What else he said extemporaneously I do not know. Cyrus Eaton seems to love the enemies of the United States.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

DEMOCRATIC? — Mrs. Clare Williams, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, is one of those Republicans who still insist on calling the Democratic Party the "Democrat Party."

This idea was in style some years ago in Republican circles as a method of protest against their opponents claiming they were democratic in the non-political sense.

Mrs. Williams was discussing the success in enlisting Democratic women to support Nixon. She referred to them several times as "Democrat women and independents."

"Do you still use the word Democrat instead of Democratic, even when the women are supporting Nixon?" she was asked.

"Well, no," Mrs. Williams replied after a thoughtful pause. "These are Democratic women."

MORSE TO UN — Each year, President Eisenhower names two Senators to be members of the United States delegation to United Nations General Assembly. This year it was the turn of Senators George Aiken (R), Vermont, and Wayne Morse (D), Oregon.

Eisenhower balked first at naming Morse, one of his severest critics and a turncoat Republican, to boot, but under pressure acceded.

The other day the White House received a letter roundly criticizing the President for "firing" Henry Cabot Lodge and replacing him with a "wild man" like Morse.

A letter went back explaining that Lodge was not "fired," he was replaced when he won GOP Vice Presidential nomination. And further, he was not replaced by Morse, but by the man long served as Lodge's deputy, Ambassador James J. Wadsworth.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It had to happen. America has been hit with a group of books that tell how to make a fortune in your spare time. There is, it seems, millions of dollars in everything. One book tells how to make a couple of million in Wall St. Another tells how to make a fortune cutting up those old camera negatives into mandolin picks; a third tells me how to get rich on my way to the shower.

Now Carl Winston has come through with a book that appeals to my sense of humor. It is called "How To Run a Million Into a Shoestring." Mr. Winston is a veteran spoofer. Everything is hilarious to him except his bank account and the look Mrs. Winston gives him.

Carl used to be a writer for the Sunday Mirror magazine. He is as dark as Nehru, has a voice that sounds like Lodge, and is as funny as Khrushchev. The combination of such extraordinary talent in a man who can run a fortune into a shoestring is, at the least, intriguing. The book is published by Putnam and sells for $1.50.

In it, Winston poses as the soul-simplifier, the man who can solve the problems of others. He tells, for example, of a man named Henry who could not remember his wife's name. "It was the late Andrew Carnegie," writes the author, "who said: 'Show me a man who can't remember his wife's name and I'll show you a man with lumps on his kisser.'

"I told Henry to write his wife's name on a large blackboard one thousand times every morning immediately after breakfast. . . You would never have recognized Henry if you'd seen him in my office three weeks later.

"He had gained at least 30 pounds, his cough had disappeared, he slept like a top and was laughing all the time. 'Doctor,' he said, 'I don't know how to thank you for what you've done for me. (He was only kidding, of course. He knew perfectly well how to thank me.) My whole life has been changed,' he went on, 'by the practical down-to-earth advice you gave me. I feel like a new person. And so does my wife, whatsername.'"

The book is ridiculous, and that's the essence of all humor. "A famous Hollywood actor once confided to me that the most important thing in his life was to wake up every morning still alive. He said it gave him confidence to go on. . . . The late Dr. Albert Einstein once said to me: 'Show me a man who doesn't know the meaning of the word fail and I'll show you a man who ought to buy a dictionary.'

"Bob and Sam were brothers. They thought about becoming prize fighters. One day Bob was matched against a man who outweighed him by 40 pounds. 'I can't get in the ring with that big gorilla,' Bob whined. 'He'll kill me.'

"'That,' said Sam, 'is negative thinking. You have the wrong attitude. Think positively. Tell yourself you are immune to his punches. Tell yourself you can destroy this big gorilla with one punch. Say to ourself: "I'm tougher than he is. . . I'll murder the bum. . ."'

"'No good,' said Bob. 'I'm not only a coward, but a liar. I wouldn't believe a word I tell myself.'

"'In that case,' said little Sam, 'I'll fight that big gorilla myself.'

"'He'll kill you too,' Bob said.

"He was right. The gorilla killed Sam.

"The incident taught Bob a lesson. Today he is vice president of a Detroit auto plant, in charge of the Suggestion Box. Last year he turned down 37,453 ideas and is considered a genius for thinking up reasons why no employe's suggestion can possibly work."

The manner in which Mr. Winston ran a million dollars down to a shoestring is also a fascinating story. Originally, he found an 18-story apartment house for sale at $2,876,000. Winston, no fool, offered $2,875,000, in addition to 2,500 monthly payments of $760 and interest. The owner accepted at noon. By sundown, Winston was redecorating the apartment of Mrs. Francine LaTour, who wanted a living room in an offshade of lavender, a plate-glass shower, and a stocked cocktail bar, in addition to bedroom mirrors.

The next morning, after a chummy breakfast with Mrs. LaTour, Carl Winston sold the whole thing to her for $835,000, terms to be arranged. This is only a small part of his genius.

I remember once, a long time ago, Mr. Winston tapped me for $5 until payday. I wonder—oh well—it all happened a long time ago. . .

Gall Bladder Needs Frequent 'Exercise'

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Gall bladder disease is a common cause of indigestion and gastric upsets in adults. This is understandable because bacteria from other parts of the body often settle in this organ. Furthermore, stones tend to form when the structure becomes sluggish and bile is allowed to thicken and crystallize.

The liver manufactures bile 24 hours a day but the intestines use this substance only after eating. It is stored and concentrated in the gall bladder until needed for the digestion of fatty, greasy, and oily foods. When items of this type are eaten, the organ contracts and bile is forced into the intestines to aid digestion.

A little cream, olive oil, or a pork chop ought to keep the bile flowing freely and the sac empty. This is good exercise for the normal gall bladder but may pose a problem when the structure is diseased or contains stones.

Distress is most severe in the upper abdomen on the right side just under the ribs. Some victims develop gas with feelings of fullness and distention after eating fatty foods. Gall bladder colic occurs when the structure contracts and forces out a small stone that gets stuck in the bile passageways. Its sharp edges irritate the duct and jaundice may ensue if the flow of bile is blocked by the stone.

X-rays determine whether the gall bladder is functioning properly. Surgery is advised when distress is traced to the ailing organ. Otherwise medication and diet may help as well as menus low in fat when foods of this type aggravate the condition.

Easily digested fats such as dairy products and egg yolk are added when it is deemed necessary to improve the tone of the gall bladder to prevent stagnation of the bile. Most of the medicines are of the relaxant types.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on gall bladders if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

TOMORROW: Baby's firs year.

MOUTH ANGLE SORENESS

S. A. K. writes: Can anything be done to relieve soreness of the corners of the mouth?

REPLY

Yes. There are several causes of irritation of inflammation of the lip angles, varying from contact with lipstick, dentifrice, or the sun to a deficiency of vitamin B complex. Malocclusion or poorly fitted dentures may be responsible. Occasionally a fungal or bacterial infection moves in. All these causes have appropriate treatments. Antbiotic ointments, for example, are helpful when infection exists.

SHORT OF BREATH

A. L. S. writes: I suffer from shortness of breath, which my doctors say is due to nerves. But I can hardly believe that it isn't heart trouble. Please help me.

REPLY

Why not trust your physician? Shortness of breath due to nervousness is more likely to resemble a sigh or the inability to take a deep breath. When a heart or lung condition is responsible, the victim pants like a dog and there may be other abnormalities such as enlarged heart or liver, rales in the chest, and irregularities of the heart.

BOOSTER POLIO SHOT

Mrs. J. S. writes: My youngster had her fourth polio shot about two years ago. Should she have another this year?

REPLY

A booster dose may be needed but your physician should be consulted on this controversial question.

MYCIN SENSITIVITY

D. C. writes: If a person is allergic to all the mycins, are there any other medicines he could take in case of infection?

REPLY

Penicillin, the tetracyclines, or the sulfonamides.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

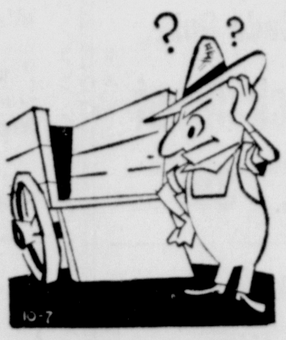
Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Ex-Governor Tom Dewey, still one of the country's legal lights, tells of a farmer who lost the tailgate of his wagon while hauling a load of fertilizer. As the wagon jolted over the rough roadbed, the fertilizer slowly slid out of the unshored end. Finally the wagon bogged down in the road, and the farmer crawled into the back of the wagon to lighten his load.

Seeing that the wagon was already empty, the farmer scratched his noggin and pondered, "Here I am, dawgone it, stuck with nothing to unload!"

A tourist deplaned in Honolulu and asked a man at the airport, "Tell me, how do you natives pronounce it? Hawaii or Havaii?"



"Havaii," said the native.

"Thank you," said the tourist.

"You're velcome," said the native.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

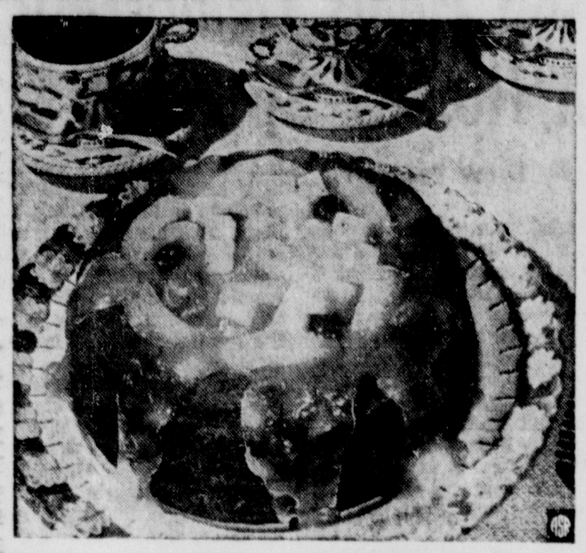
A 15-year-old London girl sang the song "Loch Lomond" constantly while she swam the 24-mile length of Scotland's Loch Lomond. Why, we wouldn't know — unless she was tuning up for a try at the English channel.

Fleeing from a troop of pursuing yoicks-and-tally-ho people, a fox has taker refuge on grounds of a London, England, airport where hunting is forbidden. Say! — those critters are even smarter than we thought!

It's Grandpappy Jenkins who says that the crop of new motor cars to be seen on the road is not only huge—it's positively a bumper-to-bumper one!

The country, opines Grandpappy Jenkins, still needs a good nickel cigar but, for the moment, has a lot more important worries.

The oyster may be the humblest of creatures but who else can you think of that enjoys a three-month—June, July, August—vacation?



Dessert Tip-Off Sauce

Tip-off: Fruited Orange Sauce on gingerbread or cake makes a handsome, delicious dessert for family and company. Dressed up here for company the gingerbread was baked in a ring mold, center filled with the colorful sauce and a few orange slices used for garnish. The gingerbread may be made also in a pan and cut in squares. It's good served hot with cold sauce. You'll like the sauce on most any kind of unfrosted cake, and with that bit left over make Fruited Orange Sundaes.

Fruited Orange Sauce On Gingerbread

1 pkg. gingerbread mix
⅔ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1 can (1-lb. 14 oz.) fruit cocktail
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Orange sections (optional)

Prepare gingerbread following package directions. Pour into a greased and floured 6-cup ring mold. (Or use a deep cake or loaf pan.) Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes, until done. Let stand 10 minutes, loosen from pan and invert on cake rack to cool. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add orange rind and juice and ½ cup syrup drained from fruit cocktail, mixing until smooth. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring. Add lemon juice and drained fruit cocktail; chill. Put gingerbread on serving plate and fill center with fruit sauce. Garnish with orange sections, if desired. Eight to ten servings.

Eggs A La Golden

2 hard cooked eggs
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Peel eggs; cut in half and separate yolks from whites. Dice whites. Heat ¾ cup of milk in saucepan over low heat. Mix flour with ¼ cup cold milk in swirl-type shaker. Add to warm milk, stirring while cooking over low heat until smooth and thickened. Add butter, seasoning and egg whites. Serve on toast with sieved yolks over the top. Makes 2 servings.

For breakfast: Half grapefruit or grapefruit sections or juice, eggs a la golden on toast, milk, and coffee too if you wish . . .

Or for lunch or supper: Eggs a la golden on toast, tomato wedges in season or stewed tomatoes, apple or applesauce with cheese and tea.

Secrets Of Charm

Shy? Try These Tips For Self-Assurance

If you're shy yourself, try putting another shy person at ease. This means so much to the other person — but it means even more to you. In thinking of someone else, you forget yourself. And there's no better way than that to make your own shyness disappear.

Approach the shy person armed with a subject to talk about, a subject you're sure he is interested in and knows something about. It's amazing how often a person who had so little to say before turns out to be quite a conversationalist when the right subject comes up. Start the subject, then listen with real interest. The compliments of your attention does wonders. Of course it does, because the true reason for shyness is the fear of being unable to attract and hold the attention of others.

To the shy person, you suddenly realize, you have the appearance of confidence. Now take the next step. Turn the appearance into the real thing. Try the same approach on someone else, someone you never thought shy at all. You'll be delighted to find it works just as well this time.

Actually, everyone has a certain amount of shyness by nature. Some people are merely better at concealing it than others. There are times when the sure aren't quite so sure. Remember this, and your own shyness diminishes rapidly.

Bipartisan Platform: Kaffeeklatsches

Campaign fever is running high—and we can all take an active part in the election campaign in the most pleasant way possible. How? At Campaign Coffees—one matter of policy on which Republicans and Democrats consistently agree. Campaign Coffee Parties mean votes!

Coffee for candidates, which started during the 1952 elections, are famous for their success in winning votes. Even the most reluctant citizen can't resist the lure of coffee! These informal get-togethers give us a chance to meet our candidate, ask questions and offer assistance to boost his chances of winning the election.

Your local political club will help you set up a Coffee for your candidate. For refreshments, the best rule to follow is simplicity. You'll want lost of your best coffee, in a steady supply; small, easy-to-make sandwiches; and a delicious new kind of sweet—like Chocolate Mint Cookies. Limit your party to a reasonable size—questions are asked more freely and answers more easily heard at smaller gatherings. Beyond that, relax and keep the coffee brewing!

Chocolate Mint Cookies

¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted enriched flour
¾ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup cold double-strength coffee thin chocolate peppermint wafers

Cream or butter margarine. Add sugar, cream until light and fluffy. Add unbeaten egg; beat thoroughly. Mix and sift flour, cocoa, salt, baking powder and baking soda. Add dry ingredients alternately with coffee to creamed mixture. Wrap dough in waxed paper or foil; chill several hours. Roll out on floured board about ⅛ inch thick. Cut in small circles with cookie cutter. Put 1 thin mint wafer between 2 circles of cookie dough. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, for 8 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen.

Fresh peaches are delicious with cereal for breakfast, baked with ham as part of the main dish, in a pie, with sugar and cream or with ice cream for dessert.

Look to the future when you plan a child's room. A crib with sides that lock in place and later can be removed, a chest of drawers, a chair and a large table make a good beginning.

Detergents Defended

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Household detergents have been blamed wrongfully as the principal cause of a skin problem known as "housewives' dermatitis", says a report from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine.

This red, itching eruption of the skin, especially on the hands, has been "loosely attributed" to these new cleaning agents, said Dr. Raymond R. Suskind, professor of industrial medicine and dermatology.

Commonly used dishwashing and laundry cleansers rarely are the primary factor in the disease, a nine-year study showed. When other factors of the household routine were removed, doctors found that daily immersion of hands in soaps and detergents was not harmful.

Hospitalized patients with skin diseases and others with normal skin were studied to determine the effect of cleansers on both. Results showed the products "rarely provoke allergic reactions" nor is their alkalinity damaging.

Emotional adjustment, previous skin problems, winter weather, and chemical agents such as food juices, dyes and solvents were listed among probable causes of the disease.

The medical department began the study, Dr. Suskind said, because for years "soap dermatitis" was a "glib and frequent diagnosis for a variety of skin problems of the hands."

Cornmeal Mush And Scrapple

1 cup water
½ cup enriched cornmeal
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped leftover ham or sausage, optional

Boil water in saucepan. Mix cornmeal, salt and milk; pour into boiling water, stirring constantly; cook until thickened. Continue cooking over low heat 10 minutes or longer, stirring occasionally.

For cornmeal mush: Serve hot with sugar and milk, as a cereal.

For scrapple: Add cooked, chopped meat and pour into a small loaf pan or refrigerator dish, cover, and chill. Cut into ¼ to ½ inch slices and pan fry slowly in a lightly buttered skillet or griddle. Serve hot with jelly or syrup. Makes 3 to 4 generous servings.

For breakfast: Orange juice, hot cornmeal mush and milk; or hot fried mush or scrapple, with jelly or syrup, milk, coffee if you wish . . .

Or for lunch or supper: Omit the juice and serve any cooked or fresh fruit you have on hand.

Steak Fromage

To tempt most everyone's appetite serve Steak Fromage. What is it? The meat cut is an old family standby . . . round steak which has been prepared with a new twist.

Yes, it's even swank enough for a party meal. The word "fromage" is a French word which means cheese. The recipe is named perfectly, round steak topped with cheddar cheese.

With the glorious name applied you might consider this recipe a budget breaker. This is not true. There are no exotic herbs or seasonings, in fact, Steak Fromage is just plain good eating and once you've tried it your family will agree too.

Round steak, as you know, is considered a less-tender meat cut and therefore requires a moist heat method of cookery. When braising any cut of meat, one must be careful that the liquid never reaches the boiling point. If this happens the meat becomes stringy and dry.

But how does one go about preparing this outstanding round steak recipe? Very simple.

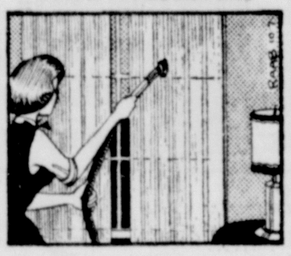
First purchase a full cut round steak which has been cut about ½ inch thick. Cut the steak into about 8 to 10 pieces. Pound each piece to about ¼ inch thickness. This is done with a meat mallet. The pounding also helps to break down the less-tender meat fibers.

Next, mix together ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon garlic salt. Dredge each piece of steak in the seasoned flour and sprinkle any remaining flour over the steak. Now brown the steak in 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Brown well on both sides. Add ¾ cup water and ¼ cup chopped onion to the meat. Cover tightly and simmer slowly for 1½ hours or until the meat is tender. Then sprinkle ⅛ cup grated cheddar cheese and 2 tablespoons of chopped parsley over the meat. Cover and simmer an additional 2 or 3 minutes or until the cheese is melted. This recipe will provide between 4 and 6 servings.

Princely escorts for this kingly recipe might include French-fried potatoes, Brussels sprouts, tossed salad, rolls and your favorite dessert.

Other ways with which to flatter a round steak might include the preparation of a braised round steak smothered in mushrooms or round steak prepared as beef birds.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Cleaning formula for bamboo match stick curtains: Remove surface dust with brush or vacuum, wipe both sides with sudsy sponge and rinse-wipe with clear water.

Zesty Salad Dressing

Beat together ½ tablespoon anchovy paste with ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, slowly beat in 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Excellent with hard-boiled eggs and chicory.

Frizzled Creamed Dried Beef

1¼ to 1½ ounces dried beef (½ jar)
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt if needed

Cut dried beef in small pieces with scissors. Melt butter in skillet; add beef and cook until beef is frizzled, about 2 to 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add flour, stirring to coat the pieces of beef. Add milk, stirring constantly, and cook until mixture is smooth and thickened. Add salt if needed. Serve on top of boiled, baked or mashed potatoes, cooked rice, noodles, cornbread or toast. Makes 2 servings.

For a dinner or lunch or supper: Frizzled creamed dried beef on boiled potato, buttered carrots or green beans, soft rolls, canned pear on lettuce leaf, orange sherbet or prune pudding (page 8), milk, hot tea.

Cottage Cheese Scalloped Potatoes

This recipe is the favorite of a physician who has recommended it for many years for its ease of digestion, flavor, fine protein, economy . . .

1 cup thinly sliced raw potatoes
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
½ tablespoon butter
½ cup milk (about)
Salt and pepper to taste

Butter a small baking dish. Arrange alternate layers of seasoned potatoes and cottage cheese. Pour on milk to cover potatoes. Bake in moderate oven, 325 degrees to 350 degrees, about 45 minutes or until potatoes are tender. The baking time may be shortened by heating the milk before adding it to the potatoes. Makes 2 generous servings.

For a dinner or lunch or supper: Cottage cheese scalloped potatoes, buttered green cabbage or another green vegetable you prefer, gingerbread or muffins, fruit, milk, and coffee or tea if you wish.

Some 5,000 workmen toiled for six years to build the Great Mosque in Delhi, India. The mosque preserves relics of the Prophet Mohammed, including a hair from his beard, his sandal and the imprint of his foot in stone. Many Moslems believe that a prayer in the Great Mosque is worth 25 uttered at home or in a lesser mosque.

Broiled Meat Salad

That's what it is . . . a broiled meat salad! If you are one of those homemakers, or have friends, that just can't keep ahead of the leftovers in your home . . . your problem is solved. In this case the solution is quite simple.

The wonderful part of this recipe is that you can use leftover pork, beef, veal or lamb.

Some homemakers will also confess that the male members in their household don't care for salads when served as the main entree. This is a good point but just see what the he-men in your home say when they taste this salad and find it chuck full of meat cubes.

For more variety in preparation, the homemaker can use cold cuts or diced canned luncheon meat in place of the cubes of leftover meat. If you have hearty eaters in your family, use a side platter of sliced luncheon meats or cold cuts. But whatever your decision, keep the menu simple, since the main entree is served straight from the broiler to the plate. As a suggestion, deviled eggs, toast triangles, potato chips, assorted relishes and cherry cobbler will serve as the perfect escorts for this broiled meat salad.

But let's look to the preparation of this recipe. First cut the tops off of 5 large tomatoes and scoop out the pulp from the center to make cups. (Since the pulp of the tomato is not used in the recipe, save it for the next evening as your vegetable. Cook the pulp and serve it with onion, diced cooked bacon and toasted bread cubes.)

After the tomato cups have been made, combine 2 hard-cooked eggs which have been diced, 1 cup diced cooked meat, ½ cup cooked peas and ½ cup mayonnaise. Mix these ingredients together lightly and fill the centers of the tomato cups. Dot each individual tomato salad with butter or margarine and place in the broiler for about 10 minutes to brown.

Remember, all salads should taste as good as they look.

Regardless of the use . . . salads, casseroles or sandwiches, leftover meat must be stored properly to make a second-day dish seem like a first-day creation. To do this make sure that the meat is tightly sealed so as to retain as much moisture as possible. Store the meat in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Use this recipe and other meat and salad combinations for those warm days yet to come in October or as a special treat for the neighborhood ladies when it's your turn to entertain.

How To Find A Hairdresser

CHICAGO (UPI)—A professional beauticians' guild offers these suggestions for making a happy choice of a hairdresser.

—Pick one in a convenient location, near home or office.

—Look for a shop with hours that fit easily to your schedule.

—Make sure the shop's prices fit into your beauty budget.

—Choose a salon which uses products you know or have used before.

—Follow the salon's customary tipping procedure.

—Give a new hairdresser and yourself a trial period. Let her shampoo and set your hair a few times before having a haircut or permanent.

—Acquaint a new hairdresser with your preferences in length of hair and hairstyles. Tell her if you dislike bangs or love French twists.

—Tell a new hairdresser your beauty history. She should know what products you've used on your hair in the past year, at home or in another salon, whether your hair has been tinted and when you last had a permanent.

Toffee Squares

1 cup margarine
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 16-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
½ cup chopped nuts

Cream margarine and sugar. Blend in egg yolk and vanilla. Add flour and mix well. Spread in a greased 15½x10½-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes.

Remove from the oven and spread immediately with melted chocolate. Sprinkle with nuts. Cool and cut into 24 squares.

Iron Kettle Darkens Pickles

Pickles, because they are prepared with an acid liquid, should not be made in an iron utensil; the iron kettle is likely to darken them.

Whipped Cream Cake For After-Dinner Entertaining

Among the most relaxing times idly sipping after-dinner coffee of the day are the minutes spent with dessert. Is it any wonder, then, that the dessert party has become so popular for informal entertaining? "Come over for coffee and dessert," is a familiar invitation. For somehow, a cup of demitasse and a tempting dessert are doubly enjoyable in the company of friends.

Whipped cream and chocolate cake are favorites of almost everyone. Therefore, Chocolate Whipped Cream Cake should draw many appreciative sighs from lucky guests. For the tiered pattern of this airy cake, bake it in two layers, then later divide these into four. The whipped cream, sweetened to taste, is spread between the layers and swirled on top.

When you dip your fork into this fabulous dessert, and sip a fragrant cup of coffee, you will agree that these are indeed the pleasantest moments of the day.

Chocolate Whipped Cream Cake

2 eggs, separated
1½ cups sugar, divided
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup salad oil
1 cup buttermilk
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups whipping cream

Heat oven to 350° (moderate). Grease and flour 2 eight-inch layer cake pans at least 1½ inches deep. Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually beat in ½ cup of the sugar. Continue beating until very stiff and glossy. Sift remaining 1 cup sugar, flour, baking soda and salt into another bowl. Add oil and ½ cup buttermilk. Beat 1 minute. Add remaining ½ cup buttermilk, egg yolks, melted chocolate and vanilla. Beat 1 minute more. Fold meringue thoroughly into batter, cutting down gently through batter, across bottom, up and over, turning bowl often. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes. Cool on cake racks. Split each layer into 2 layers. Whip cream; flavor and sweeten to taste. Spread between layers and on top of cake.

Orange Pekoe Jamboree

Here's an ideal and simple way to entertain the new neighbors down the road, or to bring your friends together.

Plan to give an Orange Pekoe Jamboree — it will be fun for everyone. Guests should be asked to come in homemade costumes representing any of the tea growing countries i.e. India, Ceylon, Indonesia, China, Japan, etc. If the neighborhood children come along with their parents, they'll love wearing their own creations. If the party is to be given outdoors, you'll need no decorations except what you choose to use. If the party takes a turn toward becoming a "block" party, your neighbors might be asked to contribute a batch of homemade cookies or a cake, etc. — with or without the party motif.

The idea of an Orange Pekoe Jamboree got its start from the following recipe which uses a tea concentrate as a base to make sure the punch is both thirst-quenching and refreshing. The colorful molded block of ice encouraged the idea. The block is made by adding a little vegetable coloring to water, which in turn is combined with various fruit flavored juices, or extracts, frozen in layers, then placed in the center of the punch bowl. As the "ice block" melts, instead of diluting the punch it adds flavor.

ORANGE PEKOE JAMBOREE PUNCH

(Makes about 60 punch servings)

2 cups boiling water
¼ cup loose tea
8 cups cranberry juice
3 12-ounce bottles ginger ale
4 cans frozen lemonade
Jamboree Ice block*

Bring water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add all the tea. Brew, uncovered, 4 minutes. Stir and strain into a container. Add cranberry juice. Just before serving, reconstitute frozen lemonade. Stir into punch. Pour over Jamboree Ice block* in punch bowl. Stir in ginger ale.

*To make Jamboree Ice Block, freeze the following layers:

a—1 can frozen lemonade reconstituted
b—2 cups water and 2 cups cranberry juice
c—1 quart water, 4-6 drops green vegetable coloring and 3-4 drops peppermint extract.

Fish Pastries

Turn left-over fish into crisp pastries for party appetizers this easy way. Make pastry with your favorite recipe or pie crust mix, roll out, cut into squares. Add a generous amount of olive oil to flaked, boned, cooked fish, along with salt, pepper and instant minced onion. Place a heaping teaspoon of fish mixture in each square of pastry, fold over, seal and bake in hot oven until pastry is golden and crisp.

Yankees Romp Over Pirates, 16-3, To Even Series

Mantle Hits Two Homers, Has 5 RBIs

Turley Is Victor; 37,308 See New Record Of 32 Hits

By JACK HAND

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Mantle drove in five runs with two homers—one an awesome 460-foot smash over the center field wall—in a 16-3 New York Yankees' romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

Squaring the World Series at one game each with this second game rout before 37,308 fans, the Yanks sent the press box tenants scrambling to the record books to find anything to match this debacle.

On Oct. 2, 1936 the Yanks beat the old New York Giants 18-4. The 14-run margin that day was the greatest ever.

Bob Turley walked the tightrope through the early innings, barely skirting disaster in the second, fourth and fifth until the American League champions burst through with seven runs in the sixth. Nicked for 13 hits, Turley stuck around until the ninth for his fourth Series victory.

Turley left with one out in the ninth and little Bobby Shantz came in and fed Don Hoak a double play ball to end the game.

Breaks Series Record

The 32 hits picked up by both teams broke the Series record of 29 set by the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox on Oct. 10, 1946. The Cards that day got 20, equalling the record set by the New York Giants against the Yankees on Oct. 7, 1921.

The Yanks' 19 blows Thursday fell just one short of the mark.

Twelve Yanks went to bat in the sixth inning against Fred Green, Clem Labine and George Witt before the Pirates finally got them out.

Mantle passed Los Angeles' Duke Snider as the only challenger to the all-time Series homer record of 15 held by the late Babe Ruth. Mantle's two blasts gave him a total of 13.

Mickey, called out on strikes twice Wednesday, struck out in the first inning Thursday and walked in the third. His first homer, a 390-foot drive into the lower stands in right, came with Roger Maris on base in the fifth.

Mantle struck out again in the big sixth inning but got his revenge in the seventh with his tremendous blast over the center field wall with two men on.

After two scoreless innings of a battle between Turley and loser Bob Friend, the Yanks crashed through for two tallies in the third on a walk to Bobby Richardson, a sacrifice, a single by Tony Kubek and a double by Gil McDougald. They lengthened the lead in the fourth on Richardson's single, a passed ball and a single by Turley and picked up two more in the fifth on Mantle's two-run homer.

Every Yankee Hits

Then came the big sixth. Mantle's three-run homer in the seventh, and the final run in the ninth wild-pitched home by Tom Cheney, the sixth Pirate pitcher.

Every Yankee starter had at least one hit and even the two infield replacements — Clete Boyer and Joe Demaestri—each had a hit. Bobby Shantz, who finished up for Turley in the ninth, never got a chance at the plate. Kubek and Richardson each had three hits and the rest were well divided.

Mantle tied a record by driving in five runs in one game. Others to do it were Yankee Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey, both in the same game in 1936, and Ted Kkluszewski of the Chicago White Sox last year in the 11-0 opening game against Los Angeles.

Before the Pirates finally got the Yanks out in the sixth, 12 men batted of whom seven had hits—five singles, a double and a triple. One was safe on an error and another advanced on a passed ball.

Elston Howard, catching in the lineup shakeup that saw Yogi Berra in left, contributed a triple and a single in the big inning and Richardson doubled and singled.

Casey Stengel announced that Whitey Ford (12-9), his veteran left-hander, would start against the Pirates in the third game Saturday at Yankee Stadium. There will be no game Friday, an open date. Vinegar Bend Bill Mizell (14-8), also a southpaw, will pitch for Pittsburgh.

Nuggets Win Two

The Golden Nuggets defeated Stadium Inn, 2-1, in an Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League match Wednesday night in Frostburg. High scorers were Blanche Plummer with 30 for the Nuggets and Elaine Wilhelm with 17 for Stadium Inn.

Mantle Wanted To Save Homers

Weren't Necessary In Lopsided Game

By TED SMITS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Mantle virtually apologized Thursday for hitting two tremendous World Series home runs.

"I wish I could have saved them for a time when they meant something — but in a 16-3 ball game. . . ."

The blond, sturdy New York Yankee outfielder even took in stride the fact that his second homer cleared the 15-foot-high right center field wall at the 436 mark—probably a 460-foot smash. This was the first time anyone batting right-handed had ever accomplished the feat.

"Anyway I'm hitting better right-handed than left," he said. "I hope I see a lot more left-handed pitching.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees, crowded out of the visitors' dressing room at Forbes Field because it is so tiny, held court in the office of Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh.

"I thought Bob Turley (the Yankee pitcher) was tired," he said. "It was a pretty long day for him and he hasn't pitched many nine-inning games. His control wasn't good."

Bobby Shantz relieved Turley in the ninth after the Pirates scored two runs and Shantz ended the game by getting Don Hoak to hit into a double play.

YANKEE STARS ARE HAPPY—Bob Turley, left, New York Yankees pitcher, and Mickey Mantle, slugging outfielder who smashed two home runs in yesterday's second World Series game, beam happily in dressing room after the Yanks routed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 16-3, to even the series at one victory apiece. Turley was the winning hurler and Mantle batted in five runs to tie a World Series record. (AP Photofax).

LaSalle To Visit Keyser, Ridgeley Hosts Petersburg

No Cumberland Games Scheduled

LaSalle will travel to Keyser, W. Va., to battle Coach Fred Clark's Golden Tornado, and the Ridgeley High Blackhawks will host Petersburg's Vikings this afternoon in the two top scholastic gridiron clashes slated today in the area.

Coach Jimmy Manges' Explorers will be the only Cumberland eleven to see action this Friday with Fort Hill idle and Allegany playing at South Hagerstown Saturday night. There will be no football game at the Fort Hill stadium tonight.

LaSalle will be seeking its third victory of the campaign against a Keyser eleven which has lost three in a row. The Explorers bowed last week to Bedford, 20-0, while Keyser has dropped verdicts to Charles Town, 13-0, Ridgeley, 20-13, and Allegany 31-13.

It will be the 25th game of the series between LaSalle and Keyser and the Explorers will be striving to even the series at 12 wins apiece. One game has ended in a tie.

Game time at Stayman Field in Keyser is 1:30 p.m.

At Ridgeley, Coach Tom O'Connor's Blackhawks, victorious in four straight games and seeking the Potomac Valley Conference title, will take on unbeaten Petersburg in a game which will go a long way toward deciding the PVC crown. Petersburg is 2-0-1 for the year.

The game which gets underway at 2:30 p.m. will be the 11th meeting of the two teams. Ridgeley has won six and Petersburg has won four in the past.

In the only game for comparison between the two elevens, Petersburg defeated Moorefield 7-6 while the Hawks whipped the Jackets 27-0.

In another PVC clash set under the lights at Frostburg, Beall High's Mountaineers (2-1-0) will take on the Romney High Pioneers (2-1-1). Romney defeated Green Bank, 13-0, in its last outing while Beall lost to Fort Hill, 33-0. The Pioneers haven't lost since their opener when they bowed to Charles Town, 12-7. Game time is 8 o'clock.

In the game for the championship of Garrett County tonight, Southern High's Highlanders will host Northern's Huskies at 8 o'clock. Northern is 2-2-0 for the year while Southern sports the same record. The two teams have split in four previous contests.

Other contests today will find Hillsboro at Circleville, Shepherdstown at Berkeley Springs, Harpers Ferry at West Virginia Deaf at Romney, Portage at Bedford, and Hancock at Boonsboro.

Two CVAL clashes are on tap this evening when Westminster's Owls travel to Frederick and North Hagerstown hosts Martinsburg.

Elaine Rodney Sets New World Trotting Mark

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Elaine Rodney trotted to a world's record for 3-year-olds Thursday as she captured the 64th Kentucky Futurity in two straight heats.

Clint Hodgins drove the brown filly through the second heat in 1:58 3-5, two-fifths of a second better than the mark set by Senator Frost in 1958.

Elaine Rodney, owned by S. L. & K. Stables of Eggertsville, N.Y., trotted the first heat in 2:00 1-5, giving her a combined time of 3:58 4-5, also the fastest ever trotted by a 3-year-old in a two-heat effort.

Castleton Farm's Quick Song, the Hambletonian runner-up, and S. A. Camp Farms' Blaze Hanover, winner of the Hambletonian, finished second and third, respectively, in each heat of this third jewel of trotting's triple crown.

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — Coach George Hott's Moorefield High Yellowjackets rallied for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to pull their first victory of the season out of the fire over Franklin High's Panthers, 13-12 yesterday in a Potomac Valley Conference clash at Franklin.

Franklin, seeking its second win in four starts, jumped off to a 12-0 halftime lead when Charles Kline passed eight yards to Lynn Lambert for the Panthers' first touchdown, and then threw to Jerry Simmons for another score on a play covering 45 yards. Both six-pointers came in the second period. Bob Cline's attempted kick for the extra point was wide after the first TD and Kline's plunge for the point on the second touchdown was stopped short of the goal. The missed point tries spelled the difference in the game.

Moorefield, on the defensive much of the contest, came to life in the final period and scored twice on two long runs by Ralph Keller. The Jacket halfback then kicked the winning extra point following the second tally with about eight minutes left to play in the game.

Keller scored on a 30-yard end sweep for Moorefield's first counter shortly after the period began. He ran 50 yards for the winning touchdown after breaking loose on a plunge into the line.

Franklin took the ensuing kickoff and marched downfield to the Moorefield 8-yard line only to have fullback Joe Dahmer fumble and the Jackets took over on downs.

Moorefield now has a 1-3-1 record, all in the PVC, and Franklin also is 1-3-1 for the season, 1-2-1 in the circuit. The lineups:

Berra In Left First Time Since 1947

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Yogi Berra played left field for the New York Yankees Thursday, marking the first time since 1947 that he played any other position but catcher in a World Series.

Berra caught every game for the Yankees in World Series competition except in one game since 1947. The one exception came on Oct. 6, 1949 when Charlie Silvera and Gus Niarhos caught for the Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Thursday's game marked Berra's 63rd World Series game, a major league record. Each series game he plays and every time he comes to bat sets a new record.

Yankees Again Favored To Take World Series

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The New York Yankees Thursday night became favored at 8½ to 5 to win the World Series after their lop-sided 16-3 victory in the second game that evened the classic at one contest each.

New York also is favored at 7½ to 5 to win the third game at New York on Saturday.

Bookmakers Thursday night quoted a range of 8 (5) - 9 (5) favoring the Yankees for the Series, and a range of 7 (5) - 8 (5) favoring them for Saturday's game.

Before Thursday's smashing victory, the Yankees had been temporary 6-5 underdogs for the Series.

Series Game Play-By-Play

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A play-by-play account of the second game of the 1960 World Series.

Yankees First

Kubek singled into left field. On a hit and run play, Kubek was out at second as McDougald missed the ball, Burgess throwing to Mazeroski. McDougald was called out on strikes. Maris, after working the count to 3 and 2, singled to right. Mantle, also with a full count, struck out. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Pirates First

Yankees Second

Berra grounded out, Nelson to Friend, who covered first. Skowron struck out, Friend's third of the game. Howard was called out on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Pirates Second

Cimoli walked on a high full count pitch. Burgess popped a 3 and 2 pitch to Richardson. Hoak flied to Mantle, Cimoli holding first. Mazeroski, on a 3 and 2 pitch, doubled down the left field foul line, Cimoli going to third. Friend popped to Skowron. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Yankees Third

Richardson walked, Friend just missing on his fast ball pitches. Turley sacrificed, Friend to Mazeroski, Richardson going to second. Kubek singled to center, scoring Richardson. McDougald doubled down the left field foul line, scoring Kubek all the way from first. Murtaugh went out to third base Umpire Dusty Boggess and asked him where McDougald's ball landed. Boggess pointed definitely that it was inside the foul line and Murtaugh went back to the Pirates dugout. Maris grounded, Nelson unassisted, McDougald going to third. Mantle walked on a full count pitch. Berra flied to Virdon. Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Pirates Third

Virdon grounded out, Kubek to Skowron. The ball hit Turley on the shoulder before Kubek fielded it, so the Yankee hurler got an assist on the play. Kubek also threw out Groat. Clemente beat out a slow roller down the third base line for a single. Nelson flied to Mantle. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees Fourth

Skowron was called out on strikes. Howard also struck out, swinging, Friend's sixth strikeout victim. Richardson singled to center. Richardson went to second on a short passed ball. Turley singled to left center, scoring Richardson. Kubek flied to Cimoli. One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Pirates Fourth

Cimoli singled to right. Burgess also singled to right, Cimoli going to third. Arroyo and Stafford began warming up in the Yankee bullpen. Hoak doubled off the right field wall, scoring Cimoli, Burgess stopping at third. Stengel went out to the mound to confer with Turley but left him in the game. Mazeroski lined to McDougald, the runners holding their bases. Baker batted for Friend and popped to Richardson, the runners holding their bases. Virdon grounded out, Richardson to Skowron. One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Fifth

Left hander Fred Green, with an 8-4 record, went in to pitch for the Pirates. McDougald walked on four pitches. Maris, on a full count pitch, grounded to Nelson who threw to Groat, forcing McDougald at second, but Maris was safe at first on a fielder's choice when Groat's throw to Green, covering first, was too late to get Maris. Mantle hit a home run into the right field lower stands, scoring Maris ahead of him and putting the Yankees into the lead, 5-1. It was Mantle's 12th series home run, putting him three behind Babe Ruth's World Series record. Berra grounded out, Mazeroski to Nelson. Skowron flied to Clemente. Two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Cimoli flied to Maris, who made a running catch in deep right center field, Clemente going to third after the catch, Nelson holding first. Burgess popped to Skowron. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Sixth

Howard got a triple off the right field center field wall when Virdon just missed a leaping catch of the ball. Richardson doubled to left, scoring Howard and putting the Yanks ahead, 6-1. Murtaugh went out to the mound, took out Green and called in Labine. Richardson went to third on a passed ball. Turley grounded out, Labine to Nelson, Richardson holding third. Kubek was safe at first when Goat, with the Pirate infield playing in, fumbled his ground ball, Richardson holding third. McDougald singled to left, scoring Richardson, Kubek stopping at second. It gave the Yanks a 7-1 lead. Maris walked, filling the bases. Mantle was called out on strikes. Berra singled to center, scoring Kubek and McDougald, Maris going to third. DeMaestri singled to right, Kubek stopping at second. Maris was called out on strikes. Mantle drove a tremendous home run—his second of the game—over the 15-foot high wall in deep centerfield, 436 feet away from home plate, scoring Kubek and DeMaestri ahead of him and putting the Yanks ahead, 15-1. National League Meets Oct. 17

Expansion Plans To Head Agenda

By JOE REICHLER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—New York is not a cinch to return to the National League when the league finally goes through with its plan for expansion, Warren Giles, head of the circuit, said Thursday.

Giles said a meeting would be held in two weeks, probably in Chicago, to discuss the cities to be added as the ninth and tenth clubs. It is believed the meeting will take place Oct. 17.

"It is my understanding from what took place at the expansion committee meeting in Chicago on Aug. 2 that we would accept two of the cities from the Continental League group," said Giles. "That doesn't necessarily mean New York or any other specific city."

Under the rules, six of the eight National League votes are needed for acceptance of a team.

The American League met last month and approved expansion to 10 teams but did not identify the cities it had under consideration. The eight cities comprising the dormant Continental League are Toronto, Houston, Denver, Dallas-Fort Worth, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Atlanta, Buffalo and New York.

"I wouldn't venture what cities will receive the necessary two-thirds majority," said Giles. "No city is assured of a franchise although there are some which have made more progress than others."

Fishing Good Over Weekend

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission said Thursday fishing in Mountain State streams should be good this week end.

Eastern Panhandle streams were reported normal and clear. The Elk River was listed as normal and clear and the Little Kanawha was low and clear for the first time in several weeks, the commission said.

All trout impoundments and major trout streams should be clear and fishable, a spokesman said.

Warns Of Gambling

NEWARK N.J. (UPI) — State Sen. Donal C. Fox, D - Essex, warned Thursday that gambling interests could take advantage of the state racing commission's call for a referendum on the question of night harness racing in New Jersey.

Rigney Bids For Cubs Job

Bill Also In Line For Detroit Post

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bill Rigney, who was fired by the San Francisco Giants during mid-season, is among those under consideration for the Chicago Cubs' managerial job, the United Press International learned Thursday.

The Cubs let Lou Boudreau go as their manager two days ago when he demanded a new three-year contract from club owner William K Wrigley.

There had been reports that Phil Cavaretta and Bob Scheffing, two men who managed the Cubs before, might be in line to succeed Boudreau. Wrigley said, however, that the club's new manager would be a man who never has handled the team before.

Rigney, here for the World Series, also has been listed among the Detroit candidates to succeed Joe Gordon, who quit as manager of the Tigers last Monday to accept a two-year managerial contract with the Kansas City Athletics.

The young Swede, who was knocked out by champion Floyd Patterson after winning the title from the American, is being taught here how to handle his plane over Alpine country.

Du Pont announces the first and only
NEVER DRAIN ANTI-FREEZE & SUMMER COOLANT
Telar
TRADEMARK

Contains patented Color Check to watch your cooling system for you!

Nobody wants to drain anti-freeze—and with Du Pont "Telar" you no longer have to!

"Telar" is the first and only anti-freeze you can safely leave in as long as your car's cooling system is mechanically okay. "Telar" is a summer coolant, too. And it contains patented Color Check to watch your cooling system for you.

Aren't there other anti-freezes you don't have to drain? None! Manufacturers of all other anti-freezes recommend draining.

Why doesn't "Telar" need draining? "Telar" is a patented new formula exclusive with Du Pont. It stands up and stays fresh where others break down. When mixed with ordinary water, it rust-proofs every engine metal—even the new aluminum alloys—with a chemical armor. This chemical armor is not just a film that can wear off; it becomes part of the metal surface, preventing rust from forming.

How does "Telar" maintain cooling in summer? "Telar" has a higher boiling point than water. "Telar" prevents rust clogging, chief cause of engine overheating; it keeps the cooling system clean and free flowing. It's ideal for cars with air conditioning.

What is Color Check? It's an exclusive feature of "Telar". If mechanical cooling system failure contaminates the solution of "Telar", Color Check tells you so by changing the solution's color from red to yellow. It is the only time you drain and replace "Telar". In Du Pont's five years of tests this rarely happened.

What about cost? "Telar" saves you money. It lasts year after year. You buy only the degree of anti-freeze protection your climate requires. Any make-up occasionally needed to replace normal loss is slight.

See your servicing dealer now! There's no reason to wait because "Telar" goes in for keeps, protects in warm weather as well as cold.

Only $5.00 per gallon for the ultimate cooling system protection!

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

What Is Dull?

I have just been watching Khrushchev on one of his milder flights of rhetoric from the rostrum of the United Nations. It was one of his attacks on Dag Hammarskjold and there were shots of him, too, shots of Prime Minister Macmillan reacting. What a show it's been. Yet how many people have seen it? This particular bit was carried by three stations in New York, including CBS. But by how many others?

Television is so totally dedicated to triviality that we are all expected to burst into sustained applause whenever the stations or the networks perform anything in the public interest, which is what they were set up to perform in the first place. Here in New York Channel 13 is doing a great job bringing the United Nations debate to the public. Some of it is dull but only in the sense that television is supposed to be an endless parade of swooning over successions of singers, jokes, and revolver shots rather than importance.

I don't know how we managed to swallow this ball of wax to start out with. Is the true function of television to bring us the sight of a girl caressing her own skin and murmuring that she never really felt clean before? (There is more narcissism openly indulged in on television in an evening than the ancient Greeks dreamed of in their philosophy.)

Great debates is the sort of thing television ought to be doing instead of selling Kleenex. But we have been so thoroughly brainwashed that we think any sort of reasonably important activity on television is an interruption of its real work rather than the other way around. It's as if the proper function of a road were the billboards along the way and the road was just a gadget designed so you could look at them.

The great debates between Nixon and Kennedy on television —whatever else you can say about them—are marvelous devices to unify the county into a single unit of talk and controversy. It has given great dignity to television which seems to terribly intent on divesting itself of its importance, as if important things were somehow automatically dreary.

This directly contradicts the experience of all the other media. God knows the newspapers engage in triviality but we don't put it on the front page. The book publishers publish the memoirs of Zsa Zsa Gabor but actually they make more money out of those of Winston Churchill. And, anyway, I find the idea that Khrushchev is dull, whereas "December Bride" is terribly interesting, quaint, terribly quaint.

To pass to other matters, "Hooray for Love," a one-hour special presented by General Electric the other night, I thought was a lot of fun. This presented Art Carney, who will be called Mr. Television if he isn't careful; Jane Powell, a mighty cute dish; Janis Paige, a terribly talented one; Tony Randall, a very skilled operative; Alice Ghostley; and Kenneth Nelson, all spoofing various aspects of love with glee and, above all, high style.

Among other things, these talented people did parodies on Tennessee Williams and Ingmar Bergman. Man, this is getting pretty far out for this mass audience. I assume the little old lady in Dubuque knows who Tennessee Williams is because Elizabeth Taylor was in the movie, but who is Ingmar Bergman—Ingrid's sister? It's nice to see television treat the audience as if it has some grown-up interests, though. Art Carney talking a pseudo-Swedish with subtitles was hilarious, too.

I never thought I'd live to see the day I'd say something nice about a child actor but there is an awful cute one named Stanley Livingston (Aw, come on, fellas. Rock Hudson isn't bad enough, we gotta have Stanley Livingston, Next 'll be Lincoln Douglas. Or maybe Grant Lee) in a show called "My Three Sons." This is a terribly domestic comedy in which a widiwer, played by Fred MacMurray, is bringing up three vari-sized sons. In this improbable household, William Frawley (you remember the guy next door in "I Love Lucy") plays the father-in-law and he does the cooking and housecleaning and is incessantly talking about his pecan fudge layer cake.

All this sounds like something that would make the average adult throw up but as a matter of fact it's quite human and very funny. At least the first one was. In that one little Stanley Livingston was being pursued by a hellcat in the second grade. "The guys call me Hot Lips Douglas," he announces gloomily to his father, who is alive with sympathy. Anyhow, it's got the jump on the field of new domestic comedies—a crowded field—and you might give it a look.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

MONTREUX, Switzerland (UPI) The Swiss need secretaries and school teachers.

But American females qualifying for such jobs needn't apply. The secretaries work longer hours —and for less pay—than American secretaries do. And the schools prefer school masters instead of marms!

Karin Menge, 23, secretary in a tourist office in Montreux discussed the secretary and school teacher situation during an interview.

Miss Menge works 48 hours a week and usually has only Sunday off. But as seems to be the national custom, she has a two-hour lunch every day.

She said this is to encourage working wives and mothers to return to their homes at noon to prepare a meal for their husbands and children.

Miss Menge said she was an apprentice secretary for several years before qualifying for a job with pay.

"During the apprenticeship," she said, "the firm teaches you typing, shorthand and other office skills.

"In return for the education, the office gains nothing at first. But toward the end of your apprenticeship, you become productive and the office benefits."

Now that she is a full-fledged secretary, Miss Menge earns around $300 a month, a fourth of which goes for rent.

She lives in a bachelor girl's apartment—the American equivalent of a two and one-half room unit. Her clothes cost about the same as clothes would cost in America. Her food bills run a little less. Bread costs 12 cents a loaf and milk, 14 cents a quart.

What's left after she's provided for the necessities goes for classical records and travel.

Miss Menge said teachers earn about $3,000 in grade schools, about $3,500 in high schools, and about $4,500 in colleges.

"But a school teacher's job here is much more demanding than that of a school teacher in America," she said.

"The school master—and men are preferred—must direct the village choir, operate the local gymnasium and be secretary to the Swiss equivalent of the town council.

Killing frosts have been known to occur as early as September 11, Mr. Hayes said, however, the weather in the Frostburg area last month was mostly cloudy and moderate with temperatures above average most of the month. Rainfall is recorded at 1.19 inches above average.

The first nine months of the year except February, May, July and September had below average precipitation. The average for these months is 13.31 but the precipitation amounted to 23.08. The average precipitation for the first nine months is 32.17 inches and 33.41 inches is recorded.

The driest September on record was 1930 when only .10 of an inch of rain fell.

Hayes said records kept by C. The average minimum temperature for the month, 54.5 degrees, was 2.5 degrees above the normal average. The average temperature for the month, 64.3 degrees, was .2 degrees above the normal average.

Legion Caravan Will Assemble At Moorefield

Robert E. Lester To Speak Sunday

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—American Legion Department Commander Robert E. Lester of St. Albans, will address the members of the Tenth District, Sunday at the Moorefield Legion Post when the annual caravan of cars from the district convenes.

Department Commander Lester is a native of Fayette County and is a lieutenant in the West Virginia State Police, which he joined in 1937. He is a graduate of New River State College and has been very active in church work.

Lester is a member of the All State Police Post No. 112, American Legion. He served in the Marine Corps from October 27, 1943 until December 3, 1945.

A chicken dinner will be served to the visiting legionnaires in the caravan at 1 p.m. by the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary. Assisting the ladies will be Curtis Boswell, William Clark, Ralph Hitt and Donald Baker.

Barron Speaks At Wardensville

WARDENSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate W. W. Barron said Thursday the development and improvement of West Virginia's renewable natural resources, like forests and lakes, can help put a halt to a downward trend in farm income.

"Resource programs of the state, in cooperation with the Federal government and local interests, have made substantial progress but these programs need to be accelerated, improved and expanded," Barron said.

He said West Virginia must also bolster its agricultural setup through adoption of new and better farming methods.

"We must provide for new agricultural enterprises that fit into our land-use and off-farm employment pattern," he told a party rally here.

Greene's Addition Group Ask Change In Sewer Line

WESTERNPORT—A group of citizens living in Greene's Addition requested Mayor Ray Wilt and the town council Wednesday evening to ask the contractor to lay the sewer pipe on the side of the road which is being built back of Jake's Place, up the hollow to Greene's Addition.

Marshall Wilson, spokesmen for the eight visitors asked that if the contractor could do it it would reduce the cost of building a road at a future time.

City Council pointed out that the sewer line is being constructed for the Upper Potomac River Commission and it is doubtful, after bids had been received and contracts let, that the contractor would be willing to change at this stage of construction.

The mayor stated that a road up the hollow is needed but the town is not financially able at this time to build it.

A traffic ordinance was unanimously passed by council. It became effective after the second reading. It conforms with the state motor vehicle laws and carries a fine of $1 to $10 for violations.

Mrs. Bertha Jones, Main Street Extended, complained about residents parking their cars on sidewalks and pedestrians have to walk in the street. Alvin Pence, police commissioner will investigate.

The mayor stated that Carl Broadwater asked that a street light be placed on Poplar Street. L. C. Lambert, street commissioner will go into the matter.

Bishop Holloway To Visit Romney

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Bishop Fred G. Holloway of the West Virginia Methodist Conference said Friday he plans to visit all 11 districts of the conference by the end of the year to "learn more about the church in West Virginia and about the needs of the people."

Bishop Holloway departed for Romney to visit in the Moorefield District this week end. He said he hoped to spend about four days in each district.

Quick casserole: heat frankfurter chunks or slices in a flavorsome tomato sauce (canned or homemade) and mix with cooked rice. Turn into a baking dish, top with grated cheese and finish in a moderate or hot oven.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father Robert W. Fleek, who passed away 13 years ago, Oct. 7, 1947.
More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know what sorrow
Lies withing our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTERS and SON.

Stock Market Posts Good Gain Despite Late Selloff

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market's two-day recovery staggered into the final hour Thursday with about half of the day's gain intact.

It was a sharp, straight-line advance up through the third hour when profit-takers entered the picture and cut the market's overall gain on average.

But the advance was sharp enough despite the late selling to restore some $2 billion to market valuations or a total of $4.6 billion in two days.

The Dow-Jones industrial stock average rose 4.81 to 583.69, the rails gained 0.74 to 125.78 and the utilities 0.53 to 92.64. The aggregate for the 65 stocks stood at 194.62 up 1.40.

Chemicals, especially those included in the averages, ran up the best gains. Allied Chemical, Du Pont and Union Carbide, were up well over a point.

Selling, when it occurred, centered in several of the leading electronics, cameras and a few oils.

Trading again was in competition with the World Series, slowing in the afternoon as traders turned to television and radio broadcasts of the game. Volume slipped to 2,510,000 shares from 2,650,000 shares the day before.

The current recovery, brokers maintain, was triggered by Amerada Petroleum's dividend boost and reports of sharply higher auto sales in September.

The advance is considered by some as a vindication of the brokerage fraternity that believes the market generally is oversold and willing to respond to good news.

Urban Growth Needs Planning, River Unit Told

Commission Opens Frederick Meeting

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Some 200 representatives of four states and the District of Columbia, attending the fall meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin at the Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick, were told yesterday that an adequate planning and zoning program is essential for the proper expansion of urban developments into formerly rural areas.

This view was outlined by George A. Grier, technical assistant to the county commissioners of Carroll County, one of three participants in a panel discussion on the subject of "Land Management and Urbanization Pressures."

Mr. Grier referred to the post-World War II era as "the bulldozer age," in which large new subdivisions have been carved out of rural areas.

Stress Orderly Growth

The Carroll County representative told those attending the meeting that urban growth cannot be stopped. However, proper planning and zoning assures that the development will take place with safeguards for the preservation of land values.

He said urban development on land formerly used for farming results in (1.) greater runoff of surface water (2.) increased water pollution, and (3.) a revision of land management practices.

Other participants in the panel discussion were Dr. Gordon Cairns, dean of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture, and Ralph C. Wible, state forester of Pennsylvania. E. A. Norton, of the Soil Conservation Service, was moderator.

Mr. Wible pointed out to his listeners that proper land use assures that all land will be utilized to its highest potential. A farmer must decide intelligently what to plant, where to plant, and whether to plant at all. He said some unprofitable land should be reforested.

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, with which Mr. Wible is associated, attempts to control land management use to assure that it will meet the needs of the future.

Gas Wells, Hunters Help

Pennsylvania's state forests do not lie idle, the forester stressed. The state treasury there has received as much as $4 million a year from natural gas obtained from state-owned land, and payments to the state for timber cut off state-owned land brought in $600,000 last year to the state.

Mr. Wible also pointed out the economic value from hunting, which is one of the recreational needs served by state-owned land. It has been estimated that Pennsylvania has about one million hunters, and they average spending $33 a year, or $33 million, as a result of their hunting pursuit.

Dr. Cairns emphasized that a comparatively small percentage of the nation's farms produce the bulk of the nation's food supply. Many farmers no longer devote full time to that occupation. He pointed out that farm income is about $37 billion but the farmers made another $8 billion in other occupations.

Citations Presented

During the luncheon yesterday, David V. Auld, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, presented two citations. One went to State Sen. John A. K. Donovan of Falls Church, Va., who served as chairman of the commission from September 1957 to September 1959. The other was received by Col. George B. Summer, who is retiring as district engineer, Washington District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

In the afternoon, the delegates from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia were taken on a bus tour of the Monocacy River valley in Frederick County. They saw fine farming communities and ended the tour at Gambrill State Park, where a barbecue was served.

At the morning session yesterday, Governor J. Millard Tawes called for an adequate water conservation program to meet the needs of an expanding economy. Noting that various groups have different ideas about water use,

Green Bank Scientists To Improve Receiver

By JOSEPH D. HUTNYAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. scientists are preparing to try again to pick up possible signs of life from other planets of other stars.

A giant radio-telescope at the Green Bank, W.Va., listening post of the National Science Foundation soon will be turned toward the stars in the hope of catching signals from outer space with a logical continuity.

Even signals of the dot - dash morse code type would be welcome, according to Dr. Geoffrey Keller, director of the foundation's astronomy program. They would indicate that the signals were not an accident, but probably were emanating from a mechanism constructed and operated by an intelligent being.

A previous effort earlier this year detected only the usual maze of natural radio waves already known to scientists. Most of these signals, Keller said, result from temperatures created by hot gas whirling around the sun and other planets. When transferred to a pen-and-ink record via magnetic tape, the signals depict a "hash" pattern familiar to scientists.

At present, scientists at Green Bank are trying to put together a "more sophisticated" receiver that might better capture any life sounds.

The first space probe at Green Bank ended two months ago with no noticeable deviation from the pattern made by the natural space signals. Keller would not say when the next probe would be launched.

The giant telescope has been in operation the last 18 months. Outer space signals are picked up on an 85-foot "dish" and recorded visually on paper.

Drizzle Halts Coronation At Forest Festival

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) — A steady drizzle put a damper Thursday on the 24th annual Mountain State Forest Festival here but if the weatherman cooperates, Friday's activities should more than make up for whatever was missed.

The coronation of Queen Silvia XXIV was postponed from Thursday afternoon until Friday morning at 10 o'clock (EST). So Gov. Cecil H. Underwood will get to perform one of his more pleasant duties when he places the crown on the head of 22-year-old Judith Bunn of Huntington.

The famous "Japanese Spectacular" will be held by a touring troupe of Japanese performers Friday morning. And for the first time in the history of the festival, the coronation and the "grand parade" will be held on the same day.

Fifty floats and more than 40 high school bands will participate in the parade.

Plan To Utilize Area Resources Asked By Labor

Program Designed To Increase Jobs

A program for increasing employment in this area through the development of the resources of Western Maryland was adopted at a joint meeting of two labor organizations here last night.

The go-ahead for the program was given by the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council at a joint meeting in the Allegany Labor Temple.

J. E. Mullenax, president of the AFL-CIO Council, presided at the session attended by representatives of nine AFL-CIO unions.

The program will call for major highway development, greater industrial development, and the fullest use of the facilities of the North Branch o. the Potomac River.

Mr. Mullenax said Western Maryland labor will ask Governor Tawes to support the program.

Details of the plan are being worked out by a committee headed by Stanley Zorick, secretary-treasurer of the central labor body.

Officials said the program will be planned to benefit all of the people of Western Maryland, and not just organized labor.

One of the aims will be to boost employment in the area. Officials pointed out that from nine to 10 per cent of the working force in Allegany and Garrett counties is idle, while the national level of unemployment is 5.9 per cent.

Lodge To Visit Maryland On Campaign Tour

Itinerary For Trip Not Yet Decided

By The Associated Press

As Maryland Democrats prepared to receive their vice presidential candidate Friday, Republicans announced the No. 2 man on their ticket also will make a campaign appearance in the state later this month.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson is due in Cumberland shortly before noon for the first of three stops Friday. The Texas senator will take his Democratic campaign for the vice presidency to Hagerstown in the afternoon and wind up the day's stumping in Salisbury at a dinner expected to draw about 1,500 party leaders from the Eastern Shore.

D. Eldred Rinehart, Republican State Chairman, said Henry Cabot Lodge will bring his party's vice presidential campaign to Maryland on Oct. 17. The details of that visit were still indefinite.

To Meet Marylanders

In announcing Lodge's visit, Rinehart said the Republican vice presidential nominee would be asked "to meet as many Marylanders as possible during the time he spends in the great Free State."

In other campaign developments, Citizens for Kennedy-Johnson headquarters in Baltimore announced two appointments. John F. Gardiner of Leonardtown was named St. Mary's County chairman of the citizens group, which is an organization of volunteer workers set up to woo voters outside the sphere of the regular party organization. Thomas L. Karsten of Owings Mills was named chairman of the telephone solicitation phase of the citizens campaign.

Democratic party workers at a rally in Montgomery County were told by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown on Thursday night that Nixon has been "deluding us, and perhaps himself, about our place in the world."

"Second Best"

Brown said in a speech prepared for the rally at Wheaton that the nation is now coming off second best in the world struggle and is leading a second best domestic existence. He said Nixon views "this second best situation with complacency."

Other Democratic activity Thursday included announcements that Adlai Stevenson will address a Maryland audience Oct. 25 and the party's campaign caravan will begin a 22-day tour of the state on Oct. 13.

Blair Lee III, Montgomery County campaign chairman, announced Stevenson will address a gathering at the Indian Spring Country Club.

Heart Ailment Is Cause Of Man's Death

An autopsy report indicates that a heart condition was the cause of the death of a Mountain Lake Park man who was found dead Wednesday night in his car in that Garrett County community.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, acting deputy county medical examiner, said William E. Stevens, 44, had been in apparent good health following his recent hospitalization and recuperation from serious burns.

He had been seriously burned in a coal mining accident two months ago in Tucker County. Authorities said gasoline in a blow torch exploded, covering his upper torso with the flaming fuel.

He was admitted to Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, and later transferred to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland. Two or three weeks ago he was discharged from the hospital and recently had started back to work.

Wednesday night he was in an Oakland bowling alley watching friends bowl, and left for home earlier than the others. The wife of one of the bowlers en route home spotted Mr. Stevens' parked car on a street in Mountain Lake Park and upon investigating found him slumped over the steering wheel. An autopsy was performed yesterday at Memorial Hospital here.

A native of Taylor County, W. Va., he was born on May 6, 1916 and was a son of Milton G. and Verla (Phillips) Stevens of Grafton.

Besides his wife he is survived by five sons, William E. Stevens Jr., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Donald Stevens, in the Army; Frederick, David and Randy Stevens, all at home.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Clive, Chicago; Mrs. Maretta Lockhart and Mrs. Flora Goodnow, both of Grafton.

The body was taken to the Bartlett Funeral Home in Grafton where a service will be conducted.

Pupils Plan Statewide Fire Drill

Prevention Theme Of Week's Program

School children of Allegany County are expected to join youngsters throughout Maryland in a fire drill Monday at 10 a.m. in observance of Fire Prevention Week.

At the request of the State Volunteer Firemen's Association, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, forwarded a letter to county superintendents urging them to contact principals to conduct a drill.

Dr. Pullen pointed out the drill would offer an opportunity to practice evacuation techniques and bring home to students and faculty alike the important aspect of fire safety and fire prevention in the home and school.

Volunteers Will Help

Cromwell Zembower of LaVale, chairman of fire prevention of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association, said volunteers of the communities are expected to participate in the drill and also to conduct an inspection of school facilities next week.

He pointed out that Allegany County is one of the counties of Maryland which requires a fire drill be held in schools once a month.

A unique school organization, well aware of fire prevention, is the Cresaptown Junior High School Fire Brigade, which is now beginning its 11th year of operations.

Joseph Wenrich, member of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company, is instructor for the brigade, which numbers about 20 pupils in the eighth and ninth grades.

He said that about every three weeks the pupils are given instructions. They are well informed on the use of fire-fighting equipment and would be able to cope with a minor fire at school until volunteers arrived on the scene.

How Brigade Operates

When a drill is held at the Cresaptown school, each member is assigned to a certain post, either at a standpipe on each floor, next to one of the nine extinguishers or at entrances.

Each standpipe, equipped with 100 feet of hose, is used in drills, and in the past the members of the brigade have been able to hook up the two standpipes and carry the hose to the kitchen within 1 minute and 45 seconds.

When the extinguishers are recharged each year, the members actually put out a fire built by Mr. Wenrich for a practice session.

Wounds Fatal To Area Man

A 66-year-old Kitzmiller man was found dead yesterday at his home of shotgun wounds.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, acting deputy medical examiner for Garrett County, said Robert Fredlock Pritts died of self-inflicted wounds.

Dr. Baumgartner said the family reported Mr. Pritts had been in ill health for some time and had been despondent recently.

The medical examiner said Mr. Pritts died of head and neck wounds.

Mr. Pritts was born in Elk Garden, W. Va., and was a lifelong resident of that area. He was a retired mine foreman and mechanic.

Surviving are his widow, Grace (Willis) Pritts; two sons, Wayne W., at home, and Robert K. Pritts, Kitzmiller; a sister, Mrs. Marceleigh Paugh, Kitzmiller; two brothers, Milton D. and H. J. Pritts, both of Kitzmiller; a sister, Mrs. Caroline Nethken, Oakland, and six grandchildren.

The body will be at the Pritts Funeral Home in Kitzmiller this evening.

Services will be conducted there Sunday at 2 p.m. (EST) by Rev. Emil G. Teyssier, assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Cumberland. Burial will be in Nethken Hill Cemetery.

Johnson Rally Set At Noon In City Hall Plaza

Candidate To Get Warm Welcome

This Western Maryland industrial center will roll out the red carpet today for U. S. Senator Lyndon Baines Johnson, Democratic candidate for Vice President.

Senator Johnson is scheduled to land at the Cumberland Municipal Airport at 11:45 a.m. and will be met by Democratic Party leaders, who will escort his motorcade to City Hall Plaza, where he will present a campaign address at 12 o'clock.

The distinguished career of the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee includes 24 years of service in Congress, 12 in the House and 12 in the Senate.

He became the youngest man ever elected to Senate leadership office when his colleagues unanimously named him Minority Leader of the 83d Congress. He was later elected Majority Leader of the 84th, 85th and 86th Congress in which the Democrats regained the controlling votes.

Explains Credo

The Texas Senator says he is a "free man, an American, a United States Senator and a Democrat—in that order. I am also a liberal, a conservative, a Texan, a taxpayer, a rancher, a businessman, a consumer, a parent, a voter and not as young as I used to be nor as old as I expect to be—and I am all of these things in no fixed order."

The tall Texan, who observed his 52d birthday in August, hits a hard pace on campaign trips when he is "out visiting with the people," explaining his creed:

"There is no limit to the future of America but the heart and will of her people."

Greeting Planned

Sen. Johnson will be greeted at the airport by Thomas B. Finan, secretary of state; City Commissioner Philmore Fleming, County Commissioners John J. Rowan and John T. Mason, Magistrates Jack Barnett, Louis Fatkin, Thomas Barton, Edward Flanigan and Frank Kelly; W. Earle Cobey, William B. Orndorff, co-chairmen for the election campaign in the county; Joseph Burke, Edwin Hoffman and Alva Lewis, local labor leaders; Mrs. Florence Finan, chairman of the women's division of the Dollars for Kennedy and Johnson.

Owens of the local office of the State Employment Security Board; Mrs. F. Allan Weatherholt and Mrs. Annette Kelly, Colleen Burke, Earle Bracey, Hugh A. McMullen and numerous others active in Democratic politics.

Mayor Charles Fryer of Ridgeley will also be with the greeting committee.

Route Is Set

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said police will escort the motorcade from the airport through Wiley Ford, up Virginia Avenue to Maryland Avenue, thence to Williams Street and Park Street. The motorcade will then move slowly down Baltimore Street to Centre Street and thence to City Hall.

Sen. Johnson and his party will leave their car on the North Centre Street side of City Hall and walk through the rotunda and to the platform which city workers erected yesterday. He will speak at noon.

Police Commissioner Fleming will deliver the welcoming address. Following the talk, the senator and his party will drive up North Centre Street to Market and thence to Cumberland Street, past the Algonquin Hotel to Greene Street. They will cross the George Washington Crossing Bridge over the Potomac River to Ridgeley.

The motorcade will travel out State Route 28 to the crossroads and then cut back to the western entrance of the airport. From here Sen. Johnson flies to Hagerstown where former Gov. William Preston Lane will escort him on a tour of that city. Later in the afternoon Sen. Johnson will go by plane to Salisbury on the Eastern Shore for a talk that evening.
